Metanoia: A Change of Heart

As we begin the new year and a new semester it is hard for me to imagine needing to change anything, especially my heart. It is also hard to imagine needing a retreat so soon after a break. So why attend Metanoia, Greek for "change of heart," from February 7-9? With chilly winter weather, and the demands of the semester not quite heaped upon us, taking a little bit of time to cozy up inside for some prayer, reflection, and faith sharing with an honest and fun community is a chance to get this semester off on the right foot, whether it is your last semester as a senior or you have many more to go.

Metanoia is always an exciting weekend full of laughter and meaningful conversation. People come back renewed and invigorated. As one student said, "It was everything I didn't know I needed." Metanoia may be everything your heart and the rest of you needs, whether that's new friends, or some quiet time, a chance to tell your story or find yourself in the story of someone else, or just break from cell phones and homework, or a new experience God's love. A change of heart can be a subtle refocus on priorities to a new understanding of who you are and who you are called to be.

Metanoia is an invitation to be open to everything you didn't know you needed. I hope to see you all there on February 7!
