DAYTON, Ohio, November 14, 1968 --- The Mid-West Inter-Collegiate Conference On Appalachia is sponsoring a workshop on the Appalachian migrant November 15-17 at the Bergamo Center in Dayton. The weekend program will begin with registration at 5:30 P.M. on Friday, November 15 and will end with a lunch at 12:30 P.M. on Sunday, November 17.

The major concentration of the workshop will be on the migrant situation both in the rural and inner city areas. The format of the workshop itself has been arranged so that an interdisciplinary approach may be employed using professionals in the field of sociology, psychology, theology, economics and political science. Participating in the workshop will be representatives from the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, Chicago and Kentucky; representatives from "Scope"; Rev. Thomas Millea from Chicago, the author of "Ghetto Fever"; Marie Cirelo from Focis in Tennessee; Dr. Robert Hoover, Chairman of the University of Cincinnati's graduate department of Community Planning; representatives from the Council of Southern Mountains; Rev. Bergeron from Boston; representatives from the Welfare Department in Ohio and Kentucky and the Hollywood Community Center.

Schools who will be participating in the weekend poverty workshop are the University of Dayton, Xavier University, Mount Saint Joseph's College, Edgecliff College, Thomas More College, Loyola of Chicago and Ohio University.

Miss Linda Wagner, a senior at UD, is Executive Director and Miss Vivian Snelling, a UD Junior will act as Chairman of the workshop.
