Fr. Jack McGrath, S.M. Award for Research in Catholic Intellectual Traditions
The McGrath Award recognizes students whose research in a CAP course demonstrates rigorous, deep, and creative engagement with thinkers, texts and/or themes associated with Catholic Intellectual Traditions.

Awardees are honored with a $500 stipend at the annual Catholic Intellectual Tradition Symposium early in the spring semester, where they will offer a presentation of their work.

Students interested in applying should contact Dr. Timothy Gabrielli.

We expect to make three awards in both the First-year/Sophomore and Junior/Senior categories.

SUMMER GRANTS FOR RESEARCH IN CATHOLIC INTELLECTUAL TRADITION SPONSORED BY THE FORUM FOR CATHOLIC INTELLECTUAL TRADITION TODAY

Eligibility

All members of the University of Dayton full-time faculty, including full-time faculty of practice, are eligible to apply for a research grant. Proposals involving more than one full-time faculty member in interdisciplinary or trans-disciplinary research or a full-time faculty member and student (graduate or undergraduate) are welcome. An awardee of a "Research Council Seed Grant" is not eligible for a grant from the Forum in the same summer. Preference given to first-time applicants.

Awards

The maximum amount that may be awarded per proposal is $5000. Requests for smaller amounts are encouraged. If the research requires grant-in-aid in addition to or in lieu of a stipend, a detailed budget is required. The grant-in-aid should include amount and rationale for travel, travel time frame, payments to research assistants, or other research expenses. The maximum for grant-in-aid is $1200. Please note that grant-in-aid is considered part of the $5000 if requesting both.

Criteria

Proposed research must demonstrate a clear connection to Catholic intellectual tradition. Proposals which engage Catholic social thought to broaden and/or deepen an understanding of the common good are encouraged. Scholars in all disciplines should consider applying. Research in the Catholic intellectual tradition is not limited to explicit engagement with Catholic theological methodologies. Catholic intellectual tradition encompasses a wide range of research topics, e.g., philosophical questions comparative analysis of voting patterns among U.S. Catholics and other religious groups, expression of religious identity through visual art, Catholic social thought on the common good in dialogue with education, engineering, or business practices, and so on. The proposal may involve a project completed in the summer of 2019 or a portion of a larger project.
