The best things in life are not always easy. Well-meaning friends remind me of this when I am not quite sure how to get through challenges. For me, this is hardly comforting, until I look at it from the perspective of the Gospel. Taking the hard way can lead to great joy, growth, and union with God. That's what Jesus did – and that is what we are also called to do.

And so, I find Jesus' challenge in the Gospel today compelling and oddly comforting. Take the narrow path or risk succumbing to the intense disappointment of seeing others in joyful union with God without you. Take the narrow path, and you'll find the joy you desire.

It's a challenge we can take to heart as we begin a new school year. Take a look at your life right now. What does taking the narrow path look like?

For some, this means accepting the challenges of good decisions already made, for others it means making new priorities – branch out in friendships, study a bit more, drink less, go on a retreat for the first time, reconcile with a friend, join a service club, go to daily Mass, join the choir, pray, become more aware of the moments each day when God uniquely calls you to be a faithful disciple – and respond to them.

The return of students, faculty, and staff brings UD back to life. If you are new to campus, we are excited to get to know you. If you are returning, welcome "home." May you be ever aware of God's faithful companionship as you walk the paths towards the narrow gate this year. Campus Ministry is here to journey with you too.

Sundays Readings

Reading I: Isaiah 66:18-21
Responsorial Psalm: 117:1,2
Reading II: Hebrews 12:5-7, 11-13
Gospel: Luke 13:22-30

Thus says the LORD:

*I know their works and their thoughts,
and I come to gather nations of every language;
they shall come and see my glory.*
Isaiah 66:18

Quote Of the Week

You have a unique message to deliver, a unique song to sing, a unique act of love to bestow. This message, this song, and this act of love has been entrusted exclusively to the one and only you.
John Powell.

A local charity which serves the poor in the Dayton area will receive 10% of every Sunday collection. The rest of the collection supports more than 100 Campus Ministry programs of all kinds, including our promotes mental health awareness on campus through advocacy, education, understanding and support. They host service projects, student and professional panels, mental health screening day, awareness days, and our biggest event: M-Fest, which is an all day music and art festival celebrating mental health awareness.

Service Program of the Week: Active Minds at UD
