Cover, Contents

Julius A. Amin
University of Dayton, jamin1@udayton.edu

Misty Thomas-Trout
University of Dayton, mthomastrout1@udayton.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/global_voices
Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons, Higher Education Commons, and the International and Comparative Education Commons

eCommons Citation

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Alumni Chair in the Humanities at eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Proceedings: Global Voices on the University of Dayton Campus by an authorized administrator of eCommons. For more information, please contact frice1@udayton.edu, mschlangen1@udayton.edu.
PROCEEDINGS OF GLOBAL VOICES ON THE UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON CAMPUS SYMPOSIUM

Compiled and edited by Julius A. Amin
Table of Contents

Acknowledgments.........................................................................................................................1
Julius A. Amin, Professor, Department of History, and Alumni Chair in the Humanities

Chapter 1: Introductions
I. Introductory Remarks: Global Voices on Campus ..............................................................6
Julius A. Amin, Professor, Department of History, and Alumni Chair in the Humanities
II. Provost Remarks: Global Voices Symposium .................................................................8
Paul Benson, Professor and Provost of the University of Dayton
III. Introduction of Keynote Speaker Imbolo Mbue ............................................................10
Amy Anderson, Associate Provost for Global and Intercultural Affairs

Chapter 2: Global Voices and Why This Symposium Matters
I. Thinking Critically About “Community” .............................................................................14
Christopher Agnew, Associate Professor, Department of History; Director of International Studies Program
II. Global Connections and the Marianists .............................................................................18
Una Cadegan, Professor, Department of History
III. Institutional Relevance .....................................................................................................21
Timothy Kao, Director of International Student and Scholar Services, Center for International Programs
IV. Why Globalization Matters ..............................................................................................23
JW Terry, UD Alumnus, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base
V. Storytelling and Cross-Cultural Communication ............................................................25
Jia Yang, Assistant Professor, Department of Global Languages and Cultures

Chapter 3: UD’s International Community
I. My Experience at the University of Dayton ......................................................................30
Amal Alrasheed, Undergraduate Student, Department of Political Science; International Studies Program
II. Two Communities = One Home ......................................................................................35
Yasir Fraish Al Busaidi, Undergraduate Student, Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering
III. My Journey to and at UD .................................................................................................43
Yanhui Hou, Doctoral Student, School of Education and Health Sciences
IV. My International Experience and Perceptions of American Culture ...............47

Blaise Mosengo, Doctoral Student, School of Education and Health Sciences

Chapter 4: Globalization on UD’s Campus

I. Sharing Stories and Recommendations ..................................................50

Neomi DeAnda, Assistant Professor, Department of Religious Studies

II. My Formative Years ..............................................................................53

Tiffany Taylor Smith, Executive Director, Office of Diversity and Inclusion

III. Themes Which Shaped My Professional Journey ....................................58

Jusuf Salih, Associate Professor, Department of Religious Studies

Chapter 5: Bringing the World to UD

I. Broadening My Educational Experience ..................................................66

Alexis Bovell, Undergraduate Student, International Studies

II. Bringing the World to UD .......................................................................68

Mark Rasmussen, Undergraduate Student, School of Engineering

Chapter 6: Solutions and Next Steps

I. My Path to Engagement with Internationalization Efforts ..........................72

Malcolm Daniels, Associate Professor, School of Engineering; Director of ETHOS Center

II. What Are the Benefits of Education Abroad? What Do We Convey to UD Students About This? ..............................................76

Karen McBride, Director of Education Abroad and Partnerships, Center for International Programs

III. Significance of Immersion Programs .....................................................79

Mary Niebler, Associate Director, Center for Social Concern

IV. Create Connections; Address Frustrations; Exercise Compassion .............83

Susan Wawrose, Professor of Lawyering Skills, School of Law

Chapter 7: Concluding Remarks and Looking Ahead ....................................87

Julius A. Amin, Professor, Department of History, and Alumni Chair in the Humanities