"ABOVE ANYTHING ELSE, I'M MOST EXCITED TO HAVE MY OWN PATIENTS THAT I CAN BUILD

RELATIONSHIPS WITH"

--NATHAN HELFFERICH

Join us on April 14th from 8 am to 1:30 pm in the Kennedy Union Ballroom as this symposium's program will explore innovative approaches to understanding and addressing addiction. Register on-line at: go.udayton.edu/udmvhsymposium

Nathan Helfferich, a current senior predentistry major who hails from Springboro, OH was drawn to the healthcare field from a very early age, inspired by his dad's career as an ear, nose, and throat surgeon. He said, "the idea of having your own patients and being able to use your specific skills to better their health and lifestyle was captivating to me." Shadowing in the area of general dentistry convinced him that the field of dentistry was a perfect fit for his desire to help others in a healthcare setting, build relationships with patients, and being able to constantly be hands-on.

During his time at UD, Nathan has devoted significant time to service, teaching, and leadership. He is one of the current co-presidents of the Dental Interest Group, a student organization that supports undergraduates interested in pursuing a dental career. He is also a supplemental instruction (SI) mentor and former SI leader for Organic Chemistry, and a cohort member of the 2018 Chaminade Scholars class.

When reflecting on memorable experiences throughout his UD career, Nathan said, "I'm proud of the people and the experiences [that] I've surrounded myself with at UD. I didn't restrict myself to one experience or group of people, but have really tried to be as involved as possible." Nathan also highlighted his SI experience and his international experiences: a six-week trip to Guatemala volunteering for an organization that serves children with disabilities and his Global Brigades experience in Nicaragua.

Besides participating in many co-curricular activities, Nathan has also excelled academically and scored a 22 on the DAT. He will be matriculating to Ohio State U College of Dentistry this coming fall. Nathan's tips for success on the DAT include: full-length practice tests from Kaplan, the DAT Destroyer problem book, and creating a study schedule and sticking with it. He said, "having full-length practice exams on my calendar to work towards was a big part of my preparation."

ISE Summer CoRPs applications Open

The University of Dayton Integrative Science and Engineering Center (ISE Center) is sponsoring ISE Summer CoRPs (Collaborative Research Projects) opportunities for UD students interested in conducting full-time research over a 10 week summer period. Students will select and rank up to four of the collaborative research projects that are listed on the ISE Summer CoRPs site. The collaborative and multi-disciplinary nature of the projects provide students with an enriching research experience in which student fellows work with two or three faculty co-mentors from across disciplines (Dr. Sun's lab in Biology shown above is one of the research labs available). Fellows will also benefit from professional development, social, and outreach activities. UD students from the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Engineering are eligible to apply. Students identifying from underrepresented in STEM fields or with financial need are encouraged to apply. Participants must be available to conduct full-time research for 10 weeks over the summer term.

Additional information, project descriptions and the on-line application are currently available at: <https://www.udayton.edu/artssciences/ctr/ise/opportunities-stu/index.php>.

The application deadline is 5 pm on March 25th, and fellowship offers are expected to be made April 3-10th.
