

head & heart

thinking and feeling through a global pandemic

2020

march 14

march 15

march 16

march 17

march 18

march 19

march 20

head & heart

thinking and feeling through a global pandemic

march 14-20, 2020

 dad

 other media

 sara

 social media

 mom

These are the various "communication channels" that I heard Covid-19 mentioned. Most of the week I was home at my families house. March 17th and most of March 18th I was not home and was trying to be off my phone so there was less data.

COVID-19

left brain

right brain

50/50

facts
logic
thinking
mathematics

feeling
intuition
emotion
expression

My research largely focused on left brain vs right brain processing. Each day I tracked the communication channel I encountered the topic of Coronavirus. The colors of the half circle shapes correlated to the initial response I had to concerning the mention of Covid-19. These responses were separated into 3 categories; left brain "thinking", right brain "feeling", or a split response.