Seventy-one Dayton and area firms are helping five University of Dayton students through the current scholastic year on a new scholarship plan, U.D. officials announced Monday.

Those studying on the "industries" scholarships are Thomas E. Doerfler, 18, of 526 Santa Cruz av.; Rosemarie MacMillan, 18, of 221 Geneva rd.; James Dillehay, 19, of Fort Loramie; Lamont C. Stewart, 18, of Yellow Springs, and David E. Rump, 18, of Minster.

The scholarships range in value from $200 to $400 each for the year, and are derived from contributions during the past three years from Dayton and area industries and business firms toward the current operating fund of the university, officials explained. Fifteen per cent of the total received through these contributions has been set aside for the scholarship fund which now totals some $13,000.

All except one of the students are freshmen. Dillehay, son of Mrs. Mildred L. Dillehay of Fort Loramie, is a sophomore in elementary education at U.D. He is a graduate of Fort Loramie high school.
