International Immersion and Solidarity

As our world continues to become more and more connected and internationalization affects people in practically all walks of life, in both positive and negative ways, we must ask ourselves "where do we fit?"

In his encyclical, On Social Concern (Sollicitudo Rei Socialis), Pope John Paul II developed the theme of solidarity. The pope suggested that the Christian response to increasing interdependence in the world should include the moral and social attitude of solidarity:

"This then is not a feeling of vague compassion or shallow distress at the misfortunes of so many people, both near and far. On the contrary, it is a firm and persevering determination to commit oneself to the common good; that is to say to the good of all and of each individual, because we are all really responsible for all" (#38).

What does it mean to be in solidarity with others? How can one understand the experience, joys and hardships of another? How can people of privilege begin to understand those in our world without?

As individuals living our own lives, getting a handle on global solidarity may seem a bit abstract. One way to build relationships across cultures and miles is to experience another's way of life. You can start to do this on a cross-cultural summer immersion.

If you are interested in attending a summer immersion to Cameroon, Guatemala, or Zambia, please check out the trips on the Center for Social Concern's website at: http://www.udayton.edu/ministry/csc/service_trips/immersions.php Applications are due November 14.

God speaks in the silence of the heart, and we listen. And then we speak to God from the fullness of our heart, and God listens. And this speaking is what prayer is meant to be.
