

4-18-2012

Research exercise: Sexual Assault on College Campus

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/stander_posters

Recommended Citation

"Research exercise: Sexual Assault on College Campus" (2012). Stander Symposium Posters. 30.
https://ecommons.udayton.edu/stander_posters/30

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Stander Symposium at eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Stander Symposium Posters by an authorized administrator of eCommons. For more information, please contact frice1@udayton.edu, mschlangen1@udayton.edu.

Sexual Assault Awareness & Prevention

Katherine Braunscheidel, Alexandria Digby, Amy Fox, Allison Herbe, Ellen Mack, Ellie McCormick, Kelly Plazibat, Justin Woods

Faculty Advisor: Annette Taylor, Ph.D., Department of Communication

Sexual Predators

- Most sexual assaults are committed by a small number of perpetrators.
 - They tend to be repeat offenders, assaulting 7 to 11 women.
- Perpetrators often are attractive and charming, and appear “normal.”
- They seek women or men who are high or otherwise vulnerable.
 - They usually know the person.
- Men who sexually assault women view them as “conquests.”
 - Men can overpower most women with merely their size and weight.
 - They usually don’t use or need weapons or threats.
- At UD, those found “responsible” for sexual assault or harassment face immediate suspension or expulsion.
- The accused also could face felony charges, permanently damaging their record.

Effects of Assault

- Rape increases the victim’s risk of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder 5.5 times more than for those who’ve never been a crime victim.
- About 30% of rape victims admit to contemplating suicide.
 - Rape victims are 13 times more likely to attempt suicide.
- Sexual assault victims are 13.4 times more likely to develop an alcohol problem.
 - They are 26 times more likely to develop a drug problem.
- The victim’s significant other might suffer guilt, depression, anxiety, anger, need for justice and PTSD as a result of the assault.
- Significant others can be a comfort to the victim:
 - Listen to the victim’s story.
 - Keep track of emotional triggers.
 - Be patient with victim’s recovery.

Party Safety

- Alcohol is No. 1 date-rape drug.
- About 90% of sexual assaults on campuses involve alcohol.
- To reduce risks of assault, practice “party safety.”
 - Tell someone where you’re going and when you’re returning.
 - Avoid attending parties alone, and watch out for each other. Take action if a friend loses good judgment or is in danger.
 - Never go off alone with a stranger or let a friend to do so. Not everyone at a UD party is trustworthy.
 - Keep your cell phone charged and programmed with 9-1-1 and campus safety, 229-2121.
- Alcohol isn’t the only source of fun. UD and the Dayton community offer many fun things to do.