About the Authors . . .

Mary Jo Huth, Ph.D.

Associate Professor of Sociology and Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology; holds a B.S. degree in Education from the University of Dayton, an M.A. in Sociology from Indiana University, and a Ph.D. in Sociology from Saint Louis University. Dr. Huth's interest in urban problems is not entirely academic, for in addition to teaching a course in Urban Sociology at the University of Dayton, she serves on the Board of the Dayton Urban League and on its Community Action Program Advisory Committee.

Leroy V. Eid, S.M., Ph.D.

B. S. in Education (1953): University of Dayton; M. A. (1958) and Ph.D. (1961): St. John's University; noted for lectures on history to teacher trainees; participated in the series of lectures on the Church Councils sponsored by the Theological Department; member of the Social Studies Committee of the Marianist Province of Cincinnati; at present on leave for post-doctorate studies.

Aloysius Soden, S.M., M.A.

Member of the Marianist Province of New York; spent most of his professional life as missionary in Japan; author of several monographs about the Orient; served in the Navy Intelligence during World War II as interpreter; now in St. Joseph's School, Yokohama.

Vito Benivegna, M.A.

Instructor of Spanish at The University of Dayton during the academic year 1965-66; currently completing studies for a Ph.D. in Latin American Literature at The University of Kansas; B.A. from Fairfield University and an M.A. from The University of Illinois.
