NEW YORK ALUMNI AND STUDENTS ARE GUESTS OF FRED WARING

(Story on Page 2)

JANUARY • 1941
Dear Alumnus:

The new year is at hand and with it comes plans for the greatest year in our history—the one which ushers in our “Decade of Progress” culminating in a glorious centennial in 1950. The first move was made Thursday night, January 16, when the Associate Board of Lay Trustees met and approved plans for a non-profit corporation to receive and administer endowment funds for the University.

The ultimate objective of the corporation is the receiving and administering of funds from a contemplated endowment campaign. Terms of the proposed corporation provide for the issuance of non-transferable participating membership certificates to every member of the endowment corporation who contributes $500 or its equivalent, while associate member certificates will be given those who contribute under $500 or its equivalent. Members of the endowment fund committee are George Quatman, Lima, chairman; Judge Edwin G. Becker, Martin Kuntz, Michael Gibbons, Carroll A. Hochwalt and Lewis B. Rock. We’re on our way!

From every standpoint, “University of Dayton Night,” Friday, December 27, on the Fred Waring program was an outstanding event. A large group of alumni and students home for the holidays was in attendance. (See front cover.) The song itself is ideally adapted to instrumental or vocal rendition and was well received by the studio and radio audience. The entire program was recorded and played at the student body assembly on January 14.

The lyrics of the song follow:

Amid the splendor of our hills and dells
We hail thee, Dayton U.
As every whispering pine forever tells
We’re loyal, Red and Blue.
Beloved hilltop, proud and true
We pledge our hearts anew.
Be ever blest, O home where nature dwells
All hail thee, Dayton U.

Come every loyal one and lift your song
In praise of Dayton U.
As o’er the stately hilltop proud and strong
There waves the Red and Blue.
The choirs of nature join the hymn
With whispering pines like seraphim;
So swell the loving chorus loud and long
In praise of Dayton U.

Maurice R. Reichard, music head, has announced that the anthem will become a part of the repertoire of our various musical units.

BRO. RYAN

Shown above is Brother Thomas Phillip Ryan, of the Congregation of St. Viator, who has been placed in charge of the University of Dayton bureau of information in relation to the National Selective Service Act. Bro. Ryan, who is in the political science department at the University, is new on the campus this year. His work in connection with the National Selective Service Act has to do with the dispensing of vital information to those students affected by the draft.

Organization Work
On New Conference
Continued by News

The U. D. News sports staff is completing preliminary steps in the formation of a new athletic conference. As a result of favorable comment to an editorial written by sports editor, Henry Rechtien, appearing on the first page of the U. D. News and later appearing in the Alumnus, the News has decided to take the gigantic job upon itself.

As stated in the editorial the task of forming the new conference is colossal. It will probably take anywhere from two to twelve months to form the new conference if it is organized at all. However, the sports

BASKETBALL

Although the victory column stands at but three wins against seven losses, a revival of U. D. basketball interest is surging through the citizens of Dayton. This year's Flyer quintet is the fightingest, sharpest Hilltop squad to bound over the hardwoods in several years. Handicapped considerably by lack of height, the Flyers have overcome the handicap by fight, agile ball-handling and smart basketball. No team, even the best, feels confident when caging off with the Red and Blue.

For instance, St. Joseph's College, with the same team as last year's, which played in the Kansas City tournament for the national intercollegiate title, fell before the viciousness of the Flyers, 40-28. Xavier, boasting one of the best teams in the country, was lucky to come from behind in the closing minutes and nose out the Flyers, 37-35. Previous to this game the Musketeers were regarded as a 55-point-a-game team. Incidentally, no team in the country has passed up St. Joseph's since the Flyers did just that, except the University of Toledo.

The Flyers opened up the season with a listless 40-34 win over little Cedarville College. Wittenberg's superior height was perhaps a bit too much of a handicap for the Flyers in the second game which the Lutherans took, 55-46. However, the Hilltoppers were short on their free throws, also, and this fact contributed much to the defeat.

SOHIP SENSATION

JERRY WESTENDORF

Dayton Chaminade product proves valuable aid to Coach Jim Carter.

St. Joseph's College was the next victim. Although the Pumas towered over the Flyers to give St. Joe's an almost hopelessly big advantage, Dayton followed the ball with bloodhound tenacity and fought every minute of the game as the old Cadets used to do. The result, a 40-28 victory—a larger margin than Purdue was able to obtain over the St. Joe outfit but a week before.

Wilmington's superior height was two points too much for the Flyers in the last home game before Christmas. The lead changed hands throughout the game and fate decreed that the Quakers should be ahead at the end of the game, 30-28.

Height spelled disaster to a three-game pre-Christmas holiday trip. The Flyers on successive nights lost three games. In every contest their opponents towered over the small but scrappy Hilltoppers. The results were: Mount Union 56, Dayton 45; Ashland 60, Dayton 35; Youngstown 53, Dayton 40.

After the holidays the Flyers faced Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware. There the Flyers were complete masters of the situation throughout the game. Coach Carter used but six men in the 42-36 victory. The following Saturday evening saw the Hilltoppers sail past a reputedly big-time Xavier team and hold the lead to the final minutes of the last half. Then the lead changed hands frequently, but the small Flyers just didn't have the advantage when the gun sounded.

Ohio University, paced by the great Frank Baumholtz, one of the best teams in Mid-Western basketball, proved too much for the locals, winning handily, 62 to 41. The Flyers had the added disadvantage of playing without their coach. Jim Carter was in Indianapolis receiving the congratulations of his friends on the birth of a daughter that same evening, January 13. Mrs. Carter and daughter are doing well.

JACK BROWN TO HEAD INTRAMURALS

The intramural program at U. D. has been still further expanded this year. The program now includes touch football, basketball, bowling, boxing, softball, archery, tennis, golf, ping-pong, billiards, and various minor indoor sports. Jack Brown '26, has replaced Lou Tschudi '34, as intramural director. Now on the program this year are touch football and boxing. The best boxers entered in staff of the U. D. News has decided to keep working for the conference until it is functioning.

Immediate public acceptance of the editorial was very favorable. Such papers as the Columbus Dispatch, the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Cincinnati Enquirer, the Toled F Blade, the Cincinnati Times Star and the Akron Beacon Journal ran excerpts from the editorial and expressed their approval of the new conference. The Dayton papers and papers in other sections affected by the editorial printed stories about the demand made in the U. D. News for the conference.

Of course it is only natural that quite a bit of the work being done must be kept secret so as not to be impaired by self-seeking interests.

intramurals will be entered as a varsity team in the Dayton Golden Gloves tournament.

The gym improvement has been completed and recreational facilities are vastly improved over what they formerly were. This improvement is largely responsible for the large intramural program, although a new field house is what is really needed for broadest intramural activity.
A Glance at Business

The year that has just ended was one of unprecedented business activity, with the peak of that activity coming at the year's close. In December, 1940, industrial output as measured by the Federal Reserve Board Index of Industrial Production, reached 136, a gain of 12 points over production in December, 1939. From April, 1940, through December of that year, each successive month showed an increase in industrial production. During this period all previous records were exceeded for the production of iron, steel, machine tools, electrical equipment, aluminum, cotton and rayon products, chemicals and electric output. Exceptional activities, too, were revealed in ship building and in the construction industry.

The boom of 1940 was evidenced, not alone in larger output of physical goods, but in larger dollar incomes to the people of the United States. The monthly income to the nation, which totaled six and one-half billions of dollars, bought among other articles large quantities of consumptive goods, as disclosed by the sales in department stores, purchase of new homes, and automobiles for pleasure purposes. The large advance orders received by the distributors of goods is another evidence of increased incomes. This activity in the sale of consumer goods may be responsible for the so-called "bogging down" in our rearment program.

SOURCE OF BUSINESS

The increased income of the American people, which has made this business activity possible, is derived from (1) purchase of war equipment by the British in the United States, (2) the policy of this government to co-operate with Great Britain short of war and the rearment of its own military facilities, (3) expanding purchasing power in the hands of consumers growing out of the activity stimulated by war and the preparation for National Defense. This government has made appropriations for defense of more than seventeen billions of dollars, with expenditures proceeding at the rate of 400 millions monthly. These sums will be increased as additional adjustments are effected by industry for the production of war requirements.

PRICES

In spite of the rapid expansion of business in the last quarter of 1940 and the large sums expended because of the defense program, limited increases have been reflected in prices. The Bureau of Labor Statistics index for the measurement of wholesale prices shows them to have risen but three points to 80 per cent of the 1926 figures, which were placed at 100 per cent. This compares to 79.5 per cent last winter and 75 per cent in August, 1939. For some commodities, such as lumber and metals, more marked price rises are revealed. Generally speaking and contrary to expectations prices have remained very stable. This condition can be explained by (1) existence of idle plants and personnel available for expanding production, (2) accumulated stocks in the form of inventories adequate for enlarged demands, (3) devices exercised by the government in the form of controlled purchases and accumulated inventories to be used in event of price increases, (4) threatened government action to business in the event of unwarranted increases in prices, (5) the desire on the part of businessmen to maintain a low price structure so long as conditions permit. Moderate price rises are to be expected as the defense program increases in activity. The stimulant to possible price rises prevails at present in the large amount of idle purchasing power available through the commercial banking system. Recent comments on this condition by Federal Reserve Bank officials may result in monetary adjustments which may minimize the significance of this condition.

EMPLOYMENT

The impact of the defense program is responsible for increased employment in the United States. Between January and October of 1940 unemployment declined 2,500,000, until it now stands at 6,653,000. It is expected this figure will drop to 4,404,000 by June of 1941.

In 1932 there were 10,959,000 unemployed in this country. At the present time, the chief requirement of industry is for skilled personnel, for in the past few years training of apprentices has been almost non-existent. This shortage is being met by the actual shifting of workers to the more essential industries and by simplifying the production task whenever possible. This enables semi-skilled workers to complete a job with a minimum of training. Over-emphasis on academic training at the expense of vocational training in high schools is another factor in this present shortage of skilled workers. The one blot on this otherwise bright picture of increased employment is that the majority of the unemployed have gained employment in industries catering to war and its needs. Thus unemployment figures in America will be low as long as war in Europe and our armament program continues, but the social evils arising from unemployment are only temporarily solved.

SECURITY MARKETS

Increased production has not caused the security market to respond as expected. Production as measured by the Federal Reserve Board Index of Production has increased from an annual average of 88 in 1938 to 136 in December, 1940, a gain of more than 66 per cent. However, the stock market closed the year no higher than the average for 1938. This condition indicates that conservative investors have concluded that high labor costs and heavy tax assessments will make this a profitless prosperity. It indicates further the existence of uncertainty with regard to the outcome of the war and the condition of the world after it is ended. This post-war condition, it is believed, will result in social maladjustments and large debts which could impose too heavy a burden on the holders of securities.

NEW YORK

About fifty of the alumni and students of the University of Dayton turned out for the Fred Waring broadcast of December 27, 1940.

Everything went off in exemplary manner. Mr. Waring, and I believe likewise the students, were well pleased with the program in general. He entertained after the broadcast with a private program for one hour in the theatre for the benefit of our crowd. At the close, he was introduced to the representatives of the University. Mr. Waring expressed his gratitude for being offered the opportunity to write a new song for the University and hoped that we all liked it. Of course, like any new piece of music, one can not appreciate the full value upon the first rendition. Most of the people present thought it was ideal.

The Alumni Chapter of New York wishes to extend thanks to those that manipulated the program from Ohio. Mr. Carolan, our President, and the rest, thought that it was an excellent idea all the way around. The only disappointment we had concerning the idea, was that it came upon us so quickly that we were unable to organize anything worthwhile upon such short notice. We feel that a lot of organization material went by the wayside. It was a golden opportunity with which we could have realized large dividends.

We intend to arrange a meeting within the next six weeks and our outlook is a little more optimistic for the coming year of 1941.

Please note change of address again for your alumni secretary in New York City.

MIAMI VALLEY

The annual meeting of the Miami Valley Alumni Chapter has been scheduled for January 15. New officers of the chapter for the 1941 season will be elected.

Retiring officers include Tod Makley, president; Lou Tschudi, vice-president; Elmer Will, secretary-treasurer, and executive committee members Huston Brown and Todd Mumma. Program Chairman Jack Brown also retires from office.

The entertainment feature of the evening is to be a talk on Conscription by Brother Thomas Phillip Ryan, C. S. V., of the department of political science and director of the National Selective Service Act bureau of information at the University of Dayton.

OLD GRAD WRITES—
Dear Sir:
I received the Alumnus magazine which was addressed to Edward Romer, St. Henry, Ohio. He is my brother and now lives at Norwood, Ohio—4335 Floral Avenue—and is vice-president and credit manager of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Company in Cincinnati. I was a student at St. Mary's Institute during the years 1881-1882-1883. I have always lived in St. Henry, am now 73 years of age and am president of the St. Henry Bank.

I have been with the bank since its inception in 1906; as cashier to 1913, then president. For the past 37 years I have been secretary of the St. Henry Building and Loan Association, which I believe, is the longest tenure of any B. & L. cashier in the state, and have a record of only one foreclosure in all this time and never had a hold-up for withdrawals. We paid out and received deposits during the depression and never had to hold anybody off for withdrawal of funds during all that time and no person ever lost a dollar as depositor or stockholder. We made no extra assessments during the bank holiday and we were the last to close in Mercer County and the first to open up without criticism of the Banking Department. As you notice from the letterhead, all Romers run the bank. E. A. Romer is my sister and Leo E. Romer is my son.

Yours very truly,
William H. Romer

1940 MEMBERSHIP SHOWS INCREASE

The accompanying listing includes the names of all alumni who have contributed to the 1940 Alumni Fund. Those who submitted more than the established annual dues of $4.00 have their contributions indicated opposite their names. The number contributing, as well as the dollar volume for the year, was considerably larger than for the past several years. However, by the same token, expenses for the association were proportionately higher in consideration that 1940 saw the establishment of a full-time secretary and the publishing of the monthly magazine.

While the increased income is gratifying in many respects and augurs well for a more stable future, it did not begin to pay the actual expense involved in operating the alumni office. This deficit was generously absorbed by the University with the hope that during the coming year receipts will greatly improve and warrant the continuance of the magazine and the other activities of the alumni office.

That there is a kindly attachment to Alma Mater on the part of a strong minority is evidenced by the large number of alumni who contributed more than the specified dues of $4.00 per year. Still other alumni donated sums of money to specific departments of the University. To spread the spirit of this minority among the bulk of the membership during the coming year is the aim of the alumni administration. Dues for 1941 are now payable. Membership cards for the new year will be mailed immediately upon receipt of your contribution.

P.S. I mention these things thinking perhaps some of you might be interested in what some of your old students have been doing all these years. I am present every day at work; keep the general books; look after loans and other business and am general adviser. Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Our Yesterdays

35 Years Ago—January, 1906
An article by M. Leslie '06, appeared in the Exponent on the subject, "Concerning Disarmament," One sentence read "Disarmament, to be acceptable, must be simultaneous." (Ed: Shades of 1932 and the 5-3-1 ratio.)

John H. Patterson wrote to thank the Brothers for their fine tribute to him in the form of a resolution.

The Chicago Alumni Club's semi-annual banquet was held at the Palmer House. William Stoecklein was at Case, Warner Kiefaber at M. I. T., and Edward J. Wright at Fordham.

The basketball team trounced Olive Branch in the season's opener, 62 to 20, and followed with a decisive win over Cedarville, 25 to 19. Captain Topmiller was the high scorer, ably assisted by Mahoney and Pfau.

25 Years Ago—January, 1916
The Exponent paid tribute to Alfred McGary, football coach. McGary came to Dayton after an undergraduate career at the University of Cincinnati, one year of coaching at Marshall College and three years at Antioch.

Carl J. Ryan was editor of the Exponent.

The basketball team won four straight from Capital, 45 to 26; St. John (Toledo), 57 to 26; Otterbein, 50 to 37, and Capital, 50 to 26. Hochwart, Sherry and Windbiel were the stars. This gave the team a record of six straight wins and no defeats for the season. In December, the Red and Blue defeated Antioch, 40 to 13, and Ohio State, 24 to 23.

10 Years Ago—January, 1931

and increased emphasis by the United States on rearmament should cause the national income to exceed all previous records and may average 85 billion dollars for the year 1941. The Federal Reserve Index of Production will probably taper off the last six months of 1941 because of increased emphasis upon the production of war goods such as ship building, guns, munitions, machine tools and airplanes. Some of these items are given little or no importance in the Federal Reserve chart and would thus cause a lowering of the index figure. This decline should be a healthy sign, as it will indicate at least partial attainment of America's goal toward complete rearmament. Expanding costs effected chiefly through higher labor charges and increased tax assessments will tend to reduce industrial profits to a minimum.
