Today, as part of Engineering Week 2018, an open house of engineering related organizations was held in Kettering Labs' main hallway and the Innovation Center, KL-108. Here (from left) Brett Nason, senior mechanical engineering major from Freedom, Wisconsin, explains about the aileron on the Aero Design Clubs' flyable model plane. At right, inquiring about joining, is, Elliot Wilson, first year mechanical engineering major from Sidney, Ohio.
