Celebrate spring
INSIDE

1 Take a Break With... Caroline Merithew, discusses designated smoking areas begin Aug. 1
2 Inside UD, within the 21st century, construction continues on campus
3 School of Law delivers a "roadmap for success," providingekyll tips for refugees
4 Summer schools in China, Winter schools in Russia: Isudy? or work?
5 Meet student leader: Jordan Barber, permanent resident, graduate assistant
6 On the cover: Cold temperatures, rain and even a little snow have been the norm for the last few months, but a few signs of life, like a crew of hard workers in the Immaculate Conception Chapel, signal that spring is finally here.

WHERE’S LARRY? Last month, Larry was at the Immaculate Conception Chapel in the northeast corner of the University, but where is he this month? Check out the alternate photo above the altar. Thanks everyone for playing. Look for Where’s Larry next in the September issue of Campus Report.

PICTURE PIECE

CONVERSATION PIECE

NEWS & NOTES

University of Dayton Campus Report
May 3, 2013

When asked what he loved most about Larry Cook, his friends pointed to his competitive nature, can-do attitude, charm and persuasive way. And they all mentioned his smile. “Larry for, we’an he smile,” recounted Brother Tom, P.P.-FR, of the Franciscan Friars of the Renewal, who, at an April 18 memorial service in the Immaculate Conception Chapel, cried a first-year mechanical engineering student from Cincinnati, and Anthony Whaley.

Student-athlete and engineering major from Springfield, Ohio, is also actively involved in office of multi - cultural affairs and ETHOS.

“Through my leadership and service, I’ve been able to enrich the spirit of the University of Dayton and the community and make a difference,” Gaskin said.

Other finalists were Megan Abbate, Alyssa Bollie, Yamiame Gueremand and Anthony Whaley.

Sharon Drew MD, a student at Ohio State University, said Larry’s death was a personal loss.

“Being a student is not easy, but he made it look easy. Many of us are proud to have known him,” she said.

When Larry(ddleman) was a student, he was known for his athletic ability, as well as his leadership skills.

Collin C. Humes, director of athletics, said Larry was a great leader and role model for student-athletes.

“He was a great man, and his passing is a huge loss for our program and our University,” Humes said.

Larry was the only student to have been on the University of Dayton’s men’s basketball team and the men’s tennis team.

He was also a member of the University’s office of multicultural affairs and ETHOS, which focuses on diversity and inclusion.

Larry was a member of the men’s basketball team and a member of the men’s tennis team.

To receive business or technical assistance with these issues and challenges and establish the policies and procedures that will bring about these changes, please contact the Office of the President, 1303 Campus Center, Phone: 229-3241; fax: 229-3063; Email: campusreport@udayton.edu.

For more news, see www.udayton.edu/news

Designated smoking areas expected to begin Aug. 1

Nearly 40 people, mostly faculty and staff, attended a smoking policy forum April 4, at which they were invited to explain the draft policy in more detail and solicit additional feedback from the campus community.

According to an online student survey last March, 78 percent of students support the new policy, while 22 percent do not.

Pending approval from President’s Council, smoking on campus would be restricted to nine designated outdoor areas. The measure, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, is expected to be a transitional step on the way to becoming a completely smoke-free campus, said Bill Fischer, vice president for student development.

A cleaner campus, a healthier work and learning environment, a reduced need for smoking cessation assistance for interested employees.

Under current campus policy, smoking is allowed only outside, 15 feet or more away from building entrances. All UD residence halls and apartments are smoke-free. Smoking is allowed in designated smoking areas and in the student union, where students can enjoy smoking in a designated area.

According to the American Cancer Society, 15 percent of the adult population in the United States smokes cigarettes.

According to a recent survey conducted by the University of Dayton’s student government, 30 percent of students support the new policy, while 70 percent do not.

Pending approval from President’s Council, smoking on campus would be restricted to nine designated outdoor areas. The measure, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, is expected to be a transitional step on the way to becoming a completely smoke-free campus.

Designated smoking areas expected to begin Aug. 1

Nearly 40 people, mostly faculty and staff, attended a smoking policy forum April 4, at which they were invited to explain the draft policy in more detail and solicit additional feedback from the campus community.

According to an online student survey last March, 78 percent of students support the new policy, while 22 percent do not.

Pending approval from President’s Council, smoking on campus would be restricted to nine designated outdoor areas. The measure, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, is expected to be a transitional step on the way to becoming a completely smoke-free campus, said Bill Fischer, vice president for student development.

A cleaner campus, a healthier work and learning environment, a reduced need for smoking cessation assistance for interested employees.

Under current campus policy, smoking is allowed only outside, 15 feet or more away from building entrances. All UD residence halls and apartments are smoke-free. Smoking is allowed in designated smoking areas and in the student union, where students can enjoy smoking in a designated area.

According to the American Cancer Society, 15 percent of the adult population in the United States smokes cigarettes.

According to a recent survey conducted by the University of Dayton’s student government, 30 percent of students support the new policy, while 70 percent do not.

Pending approval from President’s Council, smoking on campus would be restricted to nine designated outdoor areas. The measure, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, is expected to be a transitional step on the way to becoming a completely smoke-free campus.

Designated smoking areas expected to begin Aug. 1

Nearly 40 people, mostly faculty and staff, attended a smoking policy forum April 4, at which they were invited to explain the draft policy in more detail and solicit additional feedback from the campus community.

According to an online student survey last March, 78 percent of students support the new policy, while 22 percent do not.

Pending approval from President’s Council, smoking on campus would be restricted to nine designated outdoor areas. The measure, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, is expected to be a transitional step on the way to becoming a completely smoke-free campus, said Bill Fischer, vice president for student development.

A cleaner campus, a healthier work and learning environment, a reduced need for smoking cessation assistance for interested employees.

Under current campus policy, smoking is allowed only outside, 15 feet or more away from building entrances. All UD residence halls and apartments are smoke-free. Smoking is allowed in designated smoking areas and in the student union, where students can enjoy smoking in a designated area.

According to the American Cancer Society, 15 percent of the adult population in the United States smokes cigarettes.

According to a recent survey conducted by the University of Dayton’s student government, 30 percent of students support the new policy, while 70 percent do not.

Pending approval from President’s Council, smoking on campus would be restricted to nine designated outdoor areas. The measure, scheduled to take effect Aug. 1, is expected to be a transitional step on the way to becoming a completely smoke-free campus.
Summer blueprints

The University's oldest residence hall is finally getting a makeover. Built in 1954, Founders Hall doesn't look much different than it did when it opened, save for the installation of new roofs, windows and other minor facilities completed during the past half century.

That will change this month when construction starts on a $10 million renovation project to put Founders in line with other residential facilities on campus. Completion is scheduled to be in August.

Room sizes in Founders will remain the same, but students will gain more space through the installation of thicker, more soundproof walls. A thin walk-in wall currently serves as the divider between rooms. Air conditioning will also be installed, and rooms will receive new furniture.

The most dramatic change, however, won't be found inside the rooms.

"The biggest difference the students will see is in the restrooms," said Beth Keyes, vice president for facilities management. She said the common hall bathrooms will be compartmentalized to allow for more privacy.

During the past decade, the University has modernized existing residential facilities for students or built new ones to accommodate a growing student population. Marianist, Stuart, Virginia W. Kettering and Campus South have all undergone major renovations, and the University built Marianist Hall, ArtStreet apartments and the Caldwell Street Apartments.

Founders houses about 400 students.

The board of trustees approved the Founders hall plan in 2012, and University officials expect to finance the renovation through bonds.

From the sixth-floor of College Park Center to the north section of the building, the renovation is expected to move to CPC from Chaminade Hall in summer 2014. GE Aviation EPISCENTER: Work will finish in late fall on the first and fourth floors of the building, and staff are scheduled to move to CPC from Chaminade Hall in summer 2014. GE Aviation EPISCENTER: Work will finish this summer on the 139,000-square-foot GE Aviation EPISCENTER. The building is on track to be LEED certified, the first University building to receive the green-building certification. Among the energy-saving innovations is a water system that will use 40 percent less water than that of traditional buildings, equaling 93,000 gallons of savings a year. Ninety percent of the waste being shipped off the construction site is being diverted from landfills. Photovoltaic solar panels near the building's entrance will help offset the energy to be used at electric-car charging stations. A formal opening will take place this fall, but equipment and staff will move in this summer.

Frericks Center: Lobby displays will be redecorated and the skylight roof will be replaced. A new roof and boiler will be installed once the first phase of construction, which includes window replacement and the application of a brick veneer over the exterior concrete panels, is finished in June or July.

Science Center: The second phase of a multi-year modernization project will be completed over the summer. The building will receive new windows, and more classrooms and laboratories will be renovated.

College Park Center: The department of music and the theater program will move to the first and fourth floors of the building before the start of the fall semester. The physics assistant program should begin operation on the fifth floor in late fall. School of Education and Allied Professions faculty and staff are scheduled to move to CPC from Chaminade Hall in summer 2014.

GE Aviation EPISCENTER: Work will finish on the first and fourth floors of the building before the start of the fall semester. The physics assistant program should begin operation on the fifth floor in late fall. School of Education and Allied Professions faculty and staff are scheduled to move to CPC from Chaminade Hall in summer 2014.

Roesch Library: A new roof and interior finishes will be installed once the first phase of construction, which includes window replacement and the application of a brick veneer over the exterior concrete panels, is finished in June or July.

surfaces: Parking lots will be resealed and pavers will be replaced. The University spent more than $1 million to reinforce floors in University-owned houses.

What’s on the longer-term horizon? Keyes said the campus master plan still includes the construction of a performing arts center, and officials are exploring the potential for a new residence hall in the middle of campus.
The numbers, as staggering as they are, tell only part of the story. After 10 years of law school faculty retiring, many more faculty are leaving campuses across the country. Approximately 10 people showed their appreciation at an April 19 campus reception honoring E. Dale Searcy, Vera Stewart, Vernellia Randall, Cooley Howarth, Richard Saphire, Margery Verter, Sarah Segalewitz and Phil Doepker. After receiving a standing ovation, Segalewitz, a professor emeritus of mechanical engineering, addressed the audience and thanked them for their support.

“It’s unlikely you’ll have ‘likes’ and ‘tweets,’ so be adventurous. Try new things after you’ve experienced them. Be prepared to immerse yourself into another culture. It’s...
Events and Meetings

Friday, May 10: Faculty meeting, 3 p.m., Boll Theatre

May 10-12: Faculty/staff wilderness retreat. Go take a hike! Discover yourself, God and new friends as the campus ministry team leads you through the stunning beauty of Red River Gorge in Kentucky. Hiking by day and sleeping under the stars at night, experience a weekend of prayer and simplicity. The $65 fee includes all meals and transportation. Backpacks can be provided as well. Financial assistance is available. For more information and to register, contact Allison Leigh at 9-4813 or al Leigh1@udayton.edu.

June 7-9: Reunion Weekend. The Golden Flyers and the classes of 1963, 1968, 1973, 1978, 1983, 1988, 1993, 1998, 2003 and 2008 are celebrating a reunion this year. Although these classes have a milestone reunion, all alumni, family and friends are invited to Reunion Weekend. Online registration will be open through Sunday, June 2, and pre-registration is appreciated. Walk-up registrations will be accepted, but a $5 extra charge will be applied per event. Visit udayton.edu/alumni for more information and registration.

July 12: Catholic Education Summit. The Center for Catholic Education in the School of Education and Allied Professions will host its second annual summit addressing issues in Catholic education. This year's theme, "Urban Catholic Education: Meeting the Needs of ALL Learners," will feature 25 sessions addressing mission and Catholic identity, governance and leadership, academic excellence and operational vitality. All those with an interest in Catholic education are invited to attend. For more information, contact Gina Lloyd at 9-3921 or rlloyd1@udayton.edu. Visit udayton.edu/education/cce/catholic_education_summit/index.php to register.

July 29-Aug. 1: Symposium: Our Faith with Mary, Marian Library Gallery, RiverScape Library seventh floor. The Marian Library/International Marian Research Institute presents this symposium as one of UD’s special contributions to the Year of Faith. Contact Marian Library at 9-4214 or visit udayton.edu/mary.

BIKE TO WORK — May 8-17

Spring has sprung, and UD’s bike committee is celebrating with events for National Bike Month. Events are open to students and employees of all interest and skill levels and include bicycle maintenance tips and advice for the best places to take to two wheels.

“We hope these events help encourage UD to commute by bike, bike for recreation and bike to build community,” said Emily Wilk of campus recreation.

The committee, which is comprised of staff from across campus, is encouraging students on campus for first summer session to join as well, said Matthew Shreffler of Roesch Library.

Last year, 52 Flyers biked 805 miles in the region’s Bike to Work Day event sponsored by Five Rivers MetroParks to garner the grand prize in the workplace team challenge. This year, the group will take a route that includes the new Brown Street bike lane, which Hector Escobar, who leads the bike committee, is looking forward to riding. Two UD public safety officers will also accompany the group.

“Hopefully, this will allow our UD community easier and safer access to downtown and beyond,” Escobar said.

All UD bike events are free. To RSVP or reserve a RecBike for UD’s two rides (membership not required), visit academic.udayton.edu/biketowork.

---

Sports

- Baseball, Woerner Field at Time Warner Cable Stadium. Free.
  - vs. George Washington - 3 p.m., Friday, May 3
  - vs. George Washington - 1 p.m., Saturday, May 4
  - vs. George Washington - noon Sunday, May 5
  - vs. Ohio - 3 p.m., Tuesday, May 7

- Softball, UD Softball Stadium. Free.
  - vs. St. Bonaventure (doubleheader) - noon Saturday, May 4