CONSISTENT SCORES OVER TIME, REGARDLESS OF ADJUSTMENTS

SUMMER 2017: Librarians responsible for tutorials decided to stop annual assessments.

DILEMMA: What to do instead? How might the instruction team assess for student learning in terms of the Institutional Learning Goals?

CULTIVATING INSTRUCTION TEAM SUCCESS WITH LOW STAKES ASSESSMENT EXPERIMENTS

NEW: INDIVIDUAL PILOT ASSESSMENTS, SPRING 2018

DECEMBER 2017

Set learning goals: Develop effective keywords • Locate appropriate sources • Evaluate sources

JANUARY 2018

Shared examples of previous assessments.

FEBRUARY

Brainstormed assessment possibilities.

MARCH

Attended campus-wide assessment workshop.

MAY

Began sharing instruction assessment results. Librarians encouraged to write individual reports.

JUNE

Created form to feed information into team report.

JULY

Assessment report completed.

INDIVIDUAL LIBRARIANS HAD LATITUDE IN SELECTING

- Which course to assess
- Assessment technique to use
- Whether to work solo or with other librarians

Entire team participation encouraged, but not required.

INSTRUCTION ASSESSMENT REPORT FORM

1. Did students meet learning outcomes? Why or why not?

2. Based on the instruction session, what worked or did not work with this assessment approach?

3. Based on the assessment results, what might you do differently next time in terms of teaching practices? If you do not plan to change anything, please explain.

Library Instruction Assessment Form

This survey was created to assist the Instruction Team with understanding how the library provides assessments and whether those assessments work. By using this form, the Instruction Team will be able to organize the assessment results in a consistent manner for reporting to the Assessment Team.
