BRO. L. A. SALETEL, S.M.
Dr. Louis A. Saletel, S.M., head of the department and professor of geology at the University of Dayton, has been named associate dean and head of the division of science of the university. He succeeds the late Dr. Francis J. Molz, S.M.

Announcement of his appointment was made by Father George Rennicker, S.M., president of the university on the occasion of the celebration of Dr. Saletel's 25th anniversary of first profession of religious vows in the Society of Mary.

Cleveland-born, Brother Saletel received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Dayton in 1924, and earned his doctorate from the University of Fribourg, Switzerland in 1930. He joined the U.D. staff in 1936. While at the university in addition to his teaching duties in the geology department, Dr. Saletel served as supervisor of the men's dormitory, Alumni hall, for several years and was faculty adviser of the U.D. Camera Club.

The newly appointed associate dean is a member of the Ohio Academy of Science, the Rocks and Mineralogical Society of America.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO BRO. F. J. MOLZ

BRO. F. J. MOLZ, S.M.
Dr. Francis J. Molz, S.M., 55, associate dean and head of the division of science at the University of Dayton died unexpectedly at 7:45 a.m., Tuesday, Sept. 3, in the university dining room of a heart attack.

A native of Baltimore, Md., Dr. Molz joined the Society of Mary in Dayton in 1907, and made his first profession of vows March 25, 1908. He received his bachelor of science degree from the U.D. in 1916 and a licentiate in science and a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Fribourg, Switzerland in 1923 and 1924.

He joined U.D.'s faculty in 1924 and began teaching in the biology department which he later headed. Dr. Molz was faculty advisor of Sigma Delta Pi, pre-medical society and also a member of the university athletic board. He also served as perfect in Alumni Hall for many years. Dr. Molz became associate dean and head of the division of science in 1935. During his term and under his leadership the university completed arrangements for affiliation with St. Elizabeth hospital school of nursing, and also Miami Valley hospital's medical technology school and laboratory. The department of home economics at the university was also established as a section of the science division during Dr. Molz's administration.

Brother Molz was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Ohio Academy of Science and Ohio Health association.

Funeral services were held in the university chapel, Sept. 6. The Very Rev. George Renmeker, S. M., president of the university was celebrant of the solemn high Mass; the Rev. Charles L. Collins, S.M., vice-president, was deacon, and the Rev. Henry Kobe, S.M., dean of the college of arts and sciences, was subdeacon. The Rev. Edwin Leimkuhler, S.M., head of the religion department gave the funeral sermon. Burial was in the Brothers' cemetery on the University of Dayton campus.

Surviving are three brothers, Joseph, Edward, and Peter Molz; and a sister, Mrs. Bertha Vogel, all of Baltimore.

(Editor's note: The following article appeared on the editorial page of the Dayton Herald on Sept. 5. Mr. Kochendorfer is a member of the class of '40. The editor is positive that nothing more could be added to the sentiment expressed, and the tribute paid to our dear friend, teacher, and member of the Society of Mary, "Doc" Molz. One thing is for sure—the memory of his presence, influence and personality, his own individual characteristics will live and remain just as the physical structures of the university.)

To the Editor of the Herald:

Have you ever reached the point where your heart was full of emotion but you somehow just couldn't find words to express it? Well, that is how I feel right now.

I have lost a dear friend. In fact, the city has lost a dear friend. It is not stretching a point in the least to say he was everyone's friend. Always willing, even eager, to help, he never turned a deaf ear to anyone.

Many times as a student and later as chief chemist for the water department of this city I sought his aid and never left him without first having my problem solved. Now he is gone.

Literally thousands of men and women (and I am one of them) will feel a very important part of their life has been taken from them in his passing, for once you knew him he became a part of you. You felt better—you WERE better—just because of his friendship.

No, words could never tell, not even come close to telling, all he did and stood for. Doctor Francis J. Molz is a name that will not soon be forgotten. He was a Catholic. Yes, he was a Brother of Mary. But to my way of thinking he was even more than all that. He was a Christian in every sense of the word.

My heart wants to pray for him and yet my good sense tells me I should ask him to pray for me, for if there is a God in heaven then Dr. Molz must be there, too.

Yes, I have lost a very dear friend. The tears that are dropping as I write attest to that. And I want the world to know.

What more can I say? Bon Voyage, Doc. Have a good time in heaven. We'll never forget you here.

KING FOOTBALL RETURNS TO CAMPUS

Hogging the sports spotlight, King Football has returned to the University of Dayton after a three-year absence during the war years and with the return of the pigskin sport has come all the color and excitement the alumni will remember of football seasons in years past. Biggest news is the fact that the Flyers are returning to the grid wars and the 1946 season also starts Coach Harry Baujan's twenty-fifth year at the university.

Superlatives are the rule in describing the fall football season. Enthusiasm for Flyer football is probably at its highest peak. Fans who had been waiting three years for the chance, most of them, are out at the athletic ticket office when season books went on sale and officials predict the largest crowds in history. When Baujan sounded first calls for football players he was greeted by the largest number of candidates ever to report, and the pre-season dope indicated that the Flyers will meet nine of the toughest teams to appear on a U.D. schedule in many years.

The large number of football candidates reflects the greatly increased enrollment. More than 100 students showed up for the first practices in August and at the beginning of the playing season more than 70 hopefuls were still around, being drilled for duty this year or next in the daily practice sessions. Old timers have been comparing Baujan's twenty-fifth year with some of the seasons in the "Golden Age" of Flyer football when the powerful little Red and Blue elevens were upsetting everybody's applecarts with squads always numbering fewer than fifty men.

With Harry Baujan remaining as head coach and another familiar figure, Jim Carter, at work coaching the backfield, the U.D. football practice field looks about the same. Newcomer to the coaching staff is Joe Quinn, graduate of the class of 1942, who has been named freshman football mentor. Quinn is familiar to Dayton football fans who remember he was a regular halfback for two years in 1940 and '41, and was high-scoring man for the team in his senior year. He was named "most valuable" player by his teammates in his last year of college football.

Quinn, a native of Philadelphia, entered the service immediately upon graduating in 1942 and served in infantry before entering the Army Air Forces where he became a bombardier and bombardier instructor. He was discharged with the rank of

Cincy and Blue Grass Chapters Meet

The Grille, Hotel Alums, Cincinnati was the meeting place of the combined Queen City and Blue Grass Chapters, U. D. Alumni on Tuesday, Sept. 17.

The Reverend Geo. J. Renneker, S.M. president of the university addressed the dinner meeting. Father Renneker spoke on the forward strides that have been made by the university, noting that we have an enrollment of over 1800 full time and over 1000 part time students, with over 1400 veterans. Classes are being taught from 8 A.M. to 10 P.M., and we are operating on an "around the clock and thru the calendar" plan. Father Renneker also stressed the needs of additional buildings, both dormitory and classroom facilities are urgently needed.

Another member of the staff, Head Coach Harry Baujan also addressed the meeting. Harry spoke of the good job the athletes are putting in for the team, and of the many trials and tribulations of being coach. The first game of the season with a glorious victory over Wichita, 21-0, is evidence that "The Beast" knows a good team when he sees one.

Judge Edwin S. Becker, Adam Westerkamp and Betty (Myers) Yocis were in charge of arrangements.

Dr. W. Schmidt, Jr., was elected chairman of the Cincinnati Chapter and Richard Hosler was retained as secretary.

Alumni present were: Thomas Armstrong, '38; Edwin S. Becker, Sr., '11; Edwin S. Becker, Jr., '43; Norman Brinkman, '30; Michael Burger, '28; Rev. John Dillon, '13; C. W. Fedders; Ed. Captain and had been doing graduate study in physical education at Ohio State University before accepting the position of assistant coach in August.

Football fans rate the 1946 Dayton schedule as one of the most consistently "tough" lineups ever to be played by a Dayton team. The nine-game schedule lists no opponents who can be counted upon to give the Flyers a "breather." Baujan's charges are up against stiff competition all the way and several of the grid battles, those against teams like Miami and Cincinnati, both "loaded" with grid talent, who blithely opened their pigskin season against Purdue and Indiana.

Return of U.D. graduates will notice a number of familiar names on the 1946 squad roster. Eleven letterman from the 1942 season are back from the armed forces to compete again in the gridiron wars. Returnees who will see duty in the backfield include Don Pinciotti, 205-pound triple-threat man who has the starting fullback spot all sewed up. Jack Castignola, little left-hander will be back throwing passes at the left halfback spot, Milt McGuire, whose speedy running will probably earn him a place at right half, and Stan Groene, who has been shifted from fullback to half.

Joe Accrocco is back at guard,—as is stubby, powerful Dick Rudnicki, who may be out of the first action because of an injured ankle. Lee Schmidt, big 205-pound Belleville, Ill., former quarterback is now playing at the guard spot. Two centers have returned, Bill "Bo" Powers and Dan Brant who are expected to split duties through the season.

Biggest man on the squad is Bill Goss who will be using his 225 pounds to good advantage at right tackle. Joe Zoul is holding down his old place at left end.

In addition to the veterans whose names are familiar to U.D. alumni, Flyer football fans will be learning of some newcomers who are giving the old timers a rough battle for starting positions on the squad. Ed Reidy, tough 200-pound freshman from Chicago, looks like starting material at left tackle and is the only freshman to be listed on the tentative first team. Other tackle candidates include 207-pound Al Angerer, former Chaminade star, Al Speth, 17-year-old from Columbus, and Frank Maloney, a big 221-pounder who played for Dayton Chaminade High School.

At end Harry Baujan lists Dick Dahn, sophomore from Toledo as a good all-around man, and Bill Gutter, a Cleveland, along with veterans Joe Zoul, Gus Shroyer is an end who is gaining a reputation as the best pass-catcher on the club but he will miss the first games because of a hand injury.

Jim Hanby, a sophomore, is slated for first string left guard and in addition to the veterans Rudnicki, Schmidt, and Accrocco there are two freshmen, Don Mills and Bill Lange who are expected to share a lot of the work.

Among the newer players in the backfield watch for Bob Klotz, a hot little 170-pound left halfback and Art Bok, just about the fastest runner on the team, to make big names for themselves this season. As the football season began some 70 grid players were attending the daily practice sessions. Baujan, who plans for future seasons, lists them all as the varsity squad, but has divided them into 'A' and 'B' sections. Athletes listed on the "A" squad comprise the ones who will see action this fall while the "B" candidates need a little more experience before entering varsity competition. Already several huskies have worked their way up to berths on the top squad from the lower bracket.

The Flyers now have a professional trainer. Tom Smallwood, manager of the Miami Health Service in Dayton, was named as trainer for the team to relieve head coach Baujan of some of his extra duties. Baujan had previously taken care of bandaging, injuries, and other training duties in addition to acting as coach.

FORMER COACH DIES

Joseph Holsinger, former assistant football coach and head basketball coach at the University of Dayton died Thursday, August 15, at Jefferson City, Mo.

Holsinger, who underwent an operation for a brain tumor at the University of Michigan hospital, Ann Arbor, a year ago, was stricken and confined again five weeks before his death. After he had recuperated from his operation last fall, he rejoined the Michigan State coaching staff, where he has been working since the summer of 1938. After resigning in July of this year, he went to Jefferson City to operate a dairy store.

Surviving are his wife, Dorothy and five children.

FLYERS OPEN SEASON WITH 21-0 VICTORY

The University of Dayton Flyers settled a big question in the minds of thousands of students, alumni, and just plain Flyer football fans when they resumed college football September 28 after three years of inactivity, with a thumping 21 to 0 win over the Wheatshockers of Wichita, Kansas. Everybody had been wondering if the Flyers could do it again, if there would really be a return to pre-war standards of Dayton football.

A strong Dayton line, sparked by acting Captain Bill Goss, veteran 225-pound tackle, and a clever efficient backfield combined to prove to more than nine thousand spectators that 1946 would be another banner year in the annals of Dayton football.

The Dayton team scored in each of the first three quarters and managed at the same time to hold the Wichita team, who had looked good the week before against powerful Tulsa, to only two first downs. It was a Dayton contest all the way, with the Kansans looking a little better in the second half after Head Coach Harry Baujan had put in the second and third Flyer teams.

For Dayton three players were outstanding. Little Jack Castignola, halfback, and 203-pound Don Pinciotti, fullback, combined to do practically all of the passing, running, kicking and scoring that the Red and Blue accomplished all afternoon. Without them the Hilltoppers were good, with them in the backfield, U.D. was great. Bill Goss used his educated toe to score three conversions, and was superlative in his blocking and tackling duties.

Named to Post

Jack Jones, former U.D. student and Army Air Forces veteran has been named to direct athletic publicity for the University of Dayton.
