A specialized program in "accounting for small business enterprises" will begin at the University of Dayton Apr. 22 sponsored by the Community Service Center.

The program will include six Tuesday evening meetings in the ROTC Bldg. on the campus and will be directed by Jerome E. Westendorf, local CPA.

Topics to be covered during the course will be simplified methods of maintaining essential financial information, intelligent use of accounting data as a means of control and forecasting, the relationship of accounting systems to federal, state and local taxes, and instruction in filing various tax returns.

Further information may be obtained by calling Prof. John Steinbruegge at the University.
