Each year, the Miryam Award is granted to an individual or group who advocates for women and works to create a culture that supports women on our campus. The Miryam Award Selection Committee is happy to have chosen both Dr. Betty Youngkin and Grace Crivello for this year’s award.

Dr. Betty Youngkin, who has served on faculty in the English Department for nineteen years and as past director of Women and Gender Studies (1999-2004), has contributed tirelessly to the advancement and support of women here at UD. Her many accomplishments include: serving on the advisory committee which led to the development of the Women's Center on campus; establishing a Women's Leadership House; overseeing growth in the minor in Women's Studies, eventually leading to the major; serving on countless boards, committees, and councils, always advocating for women.

Grace Crivello, a senior Women and Gender Studies major, is a member of the Women's Leadership House on campus, and has worked on planning events including a panel on contemporary feminism and “Radical Cheerleaders,” raising awareness on issues surrounding body image. In addition, she serves as president for AWE (Advocates for Women Equality) and volunteers at the Greene County Family Violence Prevention Center. She is working on her honors thesis on the development of third wave feminism and how it is only now starting to take shape. She plans to go to law school to study family law.

To honor these two women and the many others who were nominated for this award this year, please join us for the Miryam Award prayer service on Wednesday, March 24th at 4:00pm in the Marianist Hall Chapel, followed by an award presentation and reception on the first floor of Marianist Hall. To RSVP for the prayer service and reception, call Sue Terbay at 937-229-2524.
