SATURDAY, APRIL 6: DAYTON MAYOR RHINE McLIN TO JOIN UD IN CELEBRATION OF WOMEN IN LEADERSHIP

Dayton Mayor Rhine McLin, the city’s first female mayor and the first African-American woman to serve in the Ohio Senate, will help the University of Dayton celebrate the success of women in leadership roles during UD’s first Women’s Leadership Conference Saturday, April 6, in the Kennedy Union on campus. McLin will give the keynote address on the conference theme, “A Time to Shine: A New Dawning of Women’s Leadership,” during the lunch break from 12:10 to 1:30 p.m. in the Kennedy Union second-floor ballroom.

More than 90 people have already registered for the conference, which is open to the public. On-site registration will begin at 9 a.m., followed by an introduction and welcome session at 9:30 a.m. University faculty and staff members will present eight hourlong sessions, running in concurrent pairs:

10:05-11:05 a.m.
Room 211 — The Yin and Yang of Title IX: Where Do We Go from Here?
Room 222 — The Importance of Voice: Finding Ways to Become Assertive Leaders

11:05 a.m.-12:10 p.m.
Room 211 — The University of Dayton’s Women’s Center Opening
Room 222 — Personality Style and Virtue: Implications for Leadership

1:35-2:35 p.m.
Room 211 — Building Community: Women Leading Room 222 — Slave Girl vs. Goddess: Finding the Power Within

3:45-4:45 p.m.
Room 211 — Psychological and Social Issues that Eclipse a Woman’s Ability to Shine
Room 222 — Women in the Academy: Gender and Leadership in Higher Education
