Quote Of the Week

You have a unique message to deliver, a unique song to sing, a unique act of love to bestow. This message, this song, and this act of love has been entrusted exclusively to the one and only you.

Spotlight ON...

"The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy." -Martin Luther King, Jr.

Where do you stand in times of challenge, when your values are on the line, when fear is present and hope is lost? How can you advocate for equality, community, human dignity, economic justice, and peace? What can we learn from how Martin Luther King, Jr. lived his life and how he spoke up for people who had no voice?

In the past, a group of students spent their Martin Luther King, Jr. Day as a day ON, not a day OFF, by joining the march and rally to downtown Dayton. This year the Office of Multicultural Affairs, Center for Social Concern, UD Interdenominational Ministry, and Campus Ministry are expanding upon that experience and inviting students back to campus early to have an entire weekend ON. The mlkYOU.us retreat includes exploring the main principles of equality, economic justice, and nonviolent activism and looking at how these principles can inspire us to advocate for our causes and for human dignity. Through sharing with a diverse group of people the retreat will provide the tools to respond to injustices on campus and our local communities.

Can you commit to a WEEKEND to be an advocate for a LIFETIME? To learn more about the retreat and to register please visit www.udayton.edu/ministry/csc and look for the MLK retreat tab to the right or by contacting the Center for Social Concern at 229-2524. Registration deadline is December 8.
