The Faithful Flyer, 09-11-2011

University of Dayton. Campus Ministry
Today we begin singing new responses from the Roman Missal, the second English translation of Mass texts. Permission to gradually implement the Gloria, Sanctus (Holy, Holy) and Mystery of Faith (Memorial Acclamation) was given by Archbishop Schnurr earlier this year. This will allow familiarity with the words and music of these new responses, so that they will be well-known by the time the rest of the Missal is introduced on the First Sunday of Advent, November 27, 2011. The red booklet, “Revised Order of Mass with Additional Mass Settings”, is available at all chapels to assist in learning the new words.

This permission applies only to these responses, as the text Amen and Lamb of God has not changed. The change does not apply to other parts or to the acclamations when they are spoken, such as at daily Mass.

Look for opportunities in the next few months around campus to hear more about the new edition of the Roman Missal. May all be encouraged to enter the Mass more intentionally in the next year and deepen our awareness of the celebration of the Eucharist.

Since UD is not a parish as such, can we simply continue with texts and music we already know?

Yes, it is true that UD’s Chapel of the Immaculate Conception and other campus chapels do not have the status of "parish." However, the new edition of the Missal and its translation belongs to the whole Church. Catholics, in all English speaking countries, will have the same translation to help us realize that we are all in this together and that this new edition of the Roman Missal, used in local languages all over the world, provides us all with an opportunity to review, re-invigorate, and deepen our appreciation of the great Mystery of Christ that we touch whenever we "DO" the liturgy together.

A local charity which serves the poor in the Dayton area will receive 10% of every Sunday collection. The rest of the collection supports more than 100 Campus Ministry programs of all kinds, including our Service Program of the Week: Wheels for Kids is a service group dedicated to promoting safe and active bike riding by repairing donated bikes and giving these bikes to local children experiencing poverty.

There will be a prayer service in Humanities Plaza at 10:30pm to commemorate the 10th anniversary of 9/11. Please join us as we gather to pray for those affected by the tragedy and for peace in our world.
