Quote Of the Week from Blessed William Joseph Chaminade

"To lead others... one must have gone that way before."

A Faith That Fits—UDIM

Coming to UD as a Christian from a Protestant background might make one ask the question: How can I and my Protestant faith find a fit in this Catholic and Marianist world that is UD? One great way that can be done is by sharing worship, study, fellowship and service in UDIM—UD Interdenominational Ministry.

As a community of believers, we understand the desire to develop our faith lives in ways that speak broadly to our background and experience of faith with a more Protestant expression. UDIM’s goal is not to replace your denominational distinction or even to create a new one. Instead we seek to celebrate the diversity of perspectives we live out in all avenues of our faith walk. One thing we know for certain: we love God and are committed to help others encounter a powerful, transformative experience of a faith that fits. So if you are looking to find a fit for your Protestant faith at UD, look no further. Join us in UDIM—a faith that fits!

Missal, Mass and Mission

Is this the first time the Roman Missal has been revised?

In the long history of the Church there have been many versions of the Roman Missal. The newest one is the third “Typical Edition.” Remember, Rome published the first edition (RM-1) based upon directives from the Second Vatican Council. In many ways it was a "new" Missal, though rooted in the Missals of the previous thousand years. RM-1 provided many new features. For us, the new, more-literal translation will be the change we notice the most in RM-3.

A local charity which serves the poor in the Dayton area will receive 10% of every Sunday collection. The rest of the collection supports more than 100 Campus Ministry programs of all kinds, including our Service Program of the Week: Locks of Love.

Service Program of the Week: Locks of Love

- organizes Locks of Love hair cutting events for campus students to donate hair to the National Locks of Love campaign, which donates hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children experiencing hair loss.
