Sophomore Year Engaging or Disengaging?

For many students their sophomore year can start out in a bit of a slump, but that doesn't have to be the case. There are many ways to re-engage in campus life—to try something new, to deepen one's faith, and to challenge the status quo. Upcoming engagement opportunities just for sophomores includes the SOPHen Your Hearts: Spiritual Practices for Sophomores mini retreat. It's a half day retreat on-campus and it's free. Please register on-line for this Saturday, September 24 event held in VWK Main from 1-4 pm.

Additionally, there's a retreat for sophomores only -the Metamorphosis Retreat held at Maria Stein November 11-13. Register on-line. This fall weekend retreat focuses on relationships, faith and life changes. Spend time alone and with fellow journeyers as you explore your spirituality and prayer life and learn about discernment- listening to your heart and vocational calling- how God is calling you to live your life. Campus Ministry is seeking sophomore leaders for this retreat now- contact Bridget Ebbert or Kristen Gittinger via the Campus Ministry website for this opportunity.

We hope that you'll find many opportunities to engage in UD campus life and explore deepening your faith this year.
