Basic principles of government contract law, use of government funds, basic procurement policies, government aid to contractors, and procurement by formal advertising will be discussed during the "Contracting with the Government" short course at the University of Dayton starting Thursday (Sept. 25).

The course will continue with eight Thursday evening meetings through Nov. 13. A second part of the course will begin in February.

Charles A. Kelley and Lloyd R. Mowery, attorneys in the office of the Staff Judge Advocate at Air Material Command, W-PAFB, will conduct the course.
