9-23-1958

Attaining Flexibility in Planning and Administering Estates and Trusts

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/news_rls

Recommended Citation

https://ecommons.udayton.edu/news_rls/174
DAYTON -- Attaining flexibility in planning and administering estates and trusts will be discussed by two Cleveland attorneys at the University of Dayton's fourth annual Institute on Federal Taxation Oct. 30-Nov. 1.

Zolman Cavitch, of Grossman, Schlesinger and Carter, and Herbert B. Levine, of Ulmer, Borne, Laronge, Glickman and Curtis, both Cleveland firms, are scheduled for a Saturday morning Session of the three-day meeting.

Cavitch is a University of Michigan graduate and a lecturer on corporate law in the graduate division of Western Reserve's law school. Levine was graduated from UCLA and Western Reserve. He was admitted to the Ohio Bar in 1954 after receiving the highest grade in that year's June examination.

The Institute, expected to draw some 100 tax practitioners to Dayton from all over the state, will be conducted at the Hotel Miami.