Quote Of the Week

from Blessed William Joseph Chaminade

Pray much, in spite of all the occupations you have.

Faith, Vocation and Leadership House

How do you imagine your living situation next year? If you desire to grow closer to your housemates, if you want to connect learning with your living situation, and you want to ground your experience in a deepening relationship with God, then the Faith, Vocation and Leadership house may be for you.

The FVL House is an upper-level learning living community committed to servant leadership, deepening faith, and exploring vocation. FVL House members begin the year with a formation retreat. Members are expected to meet weekly for a shared meal and community meeting and regular prayer throughout the week. The FVL House hosts faculty for dinners and social gatherings for the neighborhood. There is financial support to help with these efforts. FVL members also enroll in a mini-course UDI 364 & 365 which involves reading and reflection on the themes of Faith, Vocation & Leadership.

The FVL House is located at 421 College Park. It is a seven person house. The application process is now open. The application deadline is Dec. 6, 2011. For more information check out the Campus Ministry website and FVL House video on YouTube http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Xj3_nVaCQuk

Current FVL community members will be at information tables in KU Friday, November 18, from 11am-2pm to share their experiences. Questions? Contact Maria Ollier Burkett, Coordinator, Program for Christian Leadership, at maria.burkett@notes.udayton.edu or 229-3997.

Missal, Mass and Mission

What is the Mystery of Faith?

After the Consecration of the bread and wine the priest no longer says "Let us proclaim the Mystery of Faith." The Latin does not contain the words "let us proclaim..." Thus, the English reflects the Latin more closely. The phrase "let us proclaim" is a rule. We do not sing the rules in the liturgy; rather, we do what they suggest. We respond in faith to Christ, our Savior. The Mystery of Faith that we celebrate at the altar is the central belief of Christendom that Christ, by his dying and rising, has won the victory over sin for us.

A local charity which serves the poor in the Dayton area will receive 10% of every Sunday collection. The rest of the collection supports more than 100 Campus Ministry programs of all kinds, including our is a co-ed service club whose members are involved in weekly volunteer activities. They strive to build community among themselves and the city of Dayton by serving at two retirement homes, a soup kitchen, an after-school center, the Dayton MetroParks and other various organizations.
