Why is Criminal Justice Reform Important to me?

"Our society seems to prefer punishment to rehabilitation and retribution to restoration thereby indicating a failure to recognize prisoners as human beings."

"Indicating a failure to recognize prisoners as human beings." These words from a USCCB document on crime and criminal justice speak to my passion for this topic. It is my understanding of the beauty of the human person and the inherent dignity given to them by God which has often left me in awe when this basic truth is disregarded in our world and our country, particularly in the approach we have to criminal justice. I recognize the great complexity of the issue and the vastness of other factors contributing to its proliferation, such as "extreme poverty, discrimination, and racism." I believe, therefore, that learning about, understanding, and experiencing such injustices and how they hurt numerous others, will teach me how to better understand and relate to the dignity of others. I believe St. Teresa of Calcutta sums it up well: "If we have no peace, it is because we have forgotten that we belong to each other."

Because of these passions and desires, I have sought to make such issues better known. One way in which I have done so is by leading Campus Ministry's Criminal Justice Plunge, which took place last semester and will be occurring again on March 25th. I see this as an opportunity to share with others what I myself have come to know, and to walk with them towards justice and peace.

Featured Marianist Mission

One recipient of money collected for Marianists abroad this Lent will be MIRACLE in Koronga, Malawi. The "Marianist Institute of Rural Artisans for Christian Life Education" is a job skills training program for orphans who lost their parents to the AIDS pandemic in sub-Saharan Africa. After two years of training, these young men and women receive apprenticeships and assistance in securing jobs or starting a small business. With employable skills, small loans, and gifts of work tools, miracles happen. Consider donating at www.marianist.com/udgives, in select locations around campus, candle donations in the Immaculate Conception Chapel or at all Masses on March 26th.

A local charity which serves the poor in the Dayton area will receive 10% of every Sunday collection. The rest of the collection supports more than 100 Campus Ministry programs of all kinds, including our Service Program of the Week: Pax Christi is a faith-based, international Catholic peace movement that promotes social justice and nonviolent action.
