Minutes of the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate
April 19, 2010
St. Mary’s Hall Room 113B

Present: Paul Benson, David Biers, David Darrow, Heidi Gauder, Bob Kearns, Lloyd Laubach, Antonio Mari, Joe Saliba, Andrea Seielstad, Rebecca Wells

Guest: James Farrelly

Opening Prayer: Paul Benson opened the meeting with a prayer.

Minutes: The minutes of the April 12, 2010 meeting were approved with minor modifications.

Announcements: President Darrow announced that this is the last official meeting of ECAS for the academic year 2009-2010. Darrow expressed his appreciation for work accomplished by members during the year.

Old Business:
1. APC- P. Benson reported on the changes that have been made to the CAP proposal since the Academic Senate meeting of March 26, 2010. (see attached changes) ECAS suggested that these changes be sent to members of the Academic Senate before the Senate meeting of April 23.
2. FAC-D. Biers reported that his committee did not meet during this reporting period.
3. SAPC-R. Kearns reported that A. Mari and Kearns have developed a revised form of the “Academic Dishonesty Form” utilizing feedback from ECAS and SAPC. This form is attached below. ECAS recommended that the revised form be sent to the APC for further review.
4. Nominating Committee-R. Wells reported that the Nominating Committee has developed a “draft” of a procedures manual and document. The manual should be ready for submission for ECAS review and approval by Fall 2010.

New Business:
1. Provost Saliba expressed concern about the wording in the Post Tenure Review Document; specifically, Page 6, Section G. Requirements for Implementation . . . Bullet points 2, 3, and 4. Point 2 currently reads “Each department must develop a procedure for the peer evaluation of teaching effectiveness for tenured faculty members.” It was suggested that this statement be modified to read “The Provost and Deans must ensure that each department/unit develops an approved procedure for the peer evaluation of teaching effectiveness for tenured faculty members.” Point 3 currently reads “Each department must develop a peer review process for members of their faculty who fail to participate in existing processes in a manner sufficient to satisfy the six-year peer review requirement.” It was suggested that this statement be modified to read “The Provost and Deans must ensure that each department/unit develops an approved peer review process for members of their faculty who fail to participate in existing processes in a manner sufficient to satisfy the six-year peer review requirement. Point 4 currently reads “Each department must develop a post tenure review plan which is agreeable to its members and place a copy on file with a University official designated by the Provost.” It was suggested that this statement be modified to read “The Provost and Deans must ensure that each department/unit develops an approved post tenure review plan which is agreeable to its members and place a copy on file with a University official designated by the Provost.” ECAS agreed with these recommendations. A copy of the Post-Tenure Review Document that will be submitted to the Academic Senate for approval at the April 23, 2010 is attached.

The meeting was adjourned at 11:50 a.m.

Respectfully submitted by Lloyd L. Laubach

The April 13, 2010 version of the CAP includes a number of changes from the earlier version. These changes were made to incorporate the recommendations of the APC and were reviewed and approved by the APC. Please read the complete document carefully. The revised document included the following changes.

Lines 305-311 Total hours and commitment

CAP is designed to provide all University of Dayton students with an excellent and distinctive education yet insure sufficient flexibility for students to allow students to complete their degree requirements in an appropriate time frame. To achieve that end, the College and the Schools will make a collective commitment to cooperate in the design, development, and delivery of the curricular components to ensure that the new CAP structure does not result in students taking more credit hours outside their major than they are currently required to take.

Lines 335-340 Specify how hours can be satisfied

In addition to the introductory Religious Studies and Philosophy courses, all students are required to take a total of six hours of approved courses in religious studies or philosophical studies. All students are required to take three additional hours of approved courses in historical studies beyond the introductory History course. These nine hours in religious studies, philosophical studies and historical studies may also satisfy the Faith Traditions, Practical Ethical Action, Inquiry, and Integrative components.

All students must take a three-hour course that has been approved for the Diversity and Social Justice requirement. Courses used to satisfy the Diversity and Social Justice requirement may also satisfy the Faith Traditions, Practical Ethical Action, Inquiry, Integrative, the Major Capstone components, or a course in the students’ major.

Lines 363-388 Change in the descriptions of the writing seminars

Lines 426-429 Change in the description of the social science component

Lines 448-512 Change in rationale and description of the Crossing Boundaries component

Lines 526-561 Change in description of advanced level religious, philosophical & historical studies requirements

Lines 614-615 Change in unit committee responsibility

Lines 664-665 Deletion of phrase regarding courses less than 3 credits

Lines 687 Addition of student development representative to Leadership Team

Lines 697-698 Added responsibility for Leadership Team

RATIONALE: IV. M.C. 2. b. Each tenured faculty member must be evaluated by peers, using a method acceptable to the department, at least once during each six-year interval.

University of Dayton

Review of Tenured Faculty by Peers and Administrators

April 19, 2010

Section 1: Background

The faculty of the University of Dayton acknowledges that they must be accountable for the quality of both the undergraduate and graduate academic experience of its students. The members of the faculty also acknowledge that they must be accountable for the quality of their work as scholars, as members of a profession, and as members of both the academic community and of society.
As articulated in the University of Dayton Faculty Policy and Governance Handbook, Section IV.4.C.2.a and b, the current policy on the review of tenured faculty is:

a. The Departmental Chairperson or program director has the responsibility to see that results of the faculty evaluations for tenured faculty members are submitted to the Dean at least biennially. Included in these results will be the following:
   - Evaluation of teaching ability
   - Scholarly and professional activities
   - Service to the University
   - Public service
   - A summary of consultation with the faculty member on the above items.

b. Each tenured faculty member must be evaluated by peers, using a method acceptable to the department, at least once during each six-year interval.¹

Departmental post tenure review plans generally need not involve evaluation processes in addition to those by which faculty members are commonly evaluated in each six year period, as long as a peer evaluation component is included. Specifically, the six-year peer review requirement can in most cases be achieved at the University of Dayton through the use of processes by which faculty are currently reviewed. These processes also ensure that members of the faculty who participate are provided written performance feedback in a fair and equitable manner.

Current evaluation processes include annual/biennial administrative reviews of all faculty members, promotion policies that require both administrative and peer reviews, sabbatical procedures that involve administrative and peer review of sabbatical plans and subsequent accomplishments, editorial peer review processes associated with scholarly work intended for publication, presentation, and/or performance, and peer and/or professional review of research and grant proposals intended to secure research funding. The specific policies and procedures are discussed in Section 2.

Section 2: Processes for Review of Tenured Faculty

The University of Dayton has established policies and processes for evaluating faculty performance both pre- and post-tenure. Prior to the awarding of tenure, members of the faculty are evaluated annually by administrators and regularly by peers in accord with the University, unit, and department promotion and tenure policies. Once tenure is granted, administrators and peers evaluate faculty members by means of one or more of the following processes:

1. Annual/biennial reviews - conducted by administrators as specified by the unit. At least biennially, every tenured faculty member is expected to submit a summary of his or her professional activities to his or her Chairperson and, in consultation with the Chairperson, set individual professional goals and review work toward previously set goals\(^2\). Consistent with University policy, the review includes the following:
   a. Evaluation of teaching ability based upon multiple measures, including peer review\(^3\)
   b. Scholarly and professional activities
   c. Service to the University
   d. Public service
2. Promotion reviews – conducted by peers and administrators in accord with University and department/unit promotion policies and processes at the time the faculty member chooses, for example, to pursue promotion in academic rank, to seek an endowed chair, to apply for an administrative position, or to pursue any other academic position\(^4\).
3. Sabbatical plan and post-sabbatical report reviews – conducted by peers and administrators on an approximate seven year cycle in accord with University policy as initiated by the eligible faculty member\(^5\).
4. Critical reviews of: performances; public presentations; and/or, scholarly works submitted for publication in academic or professional society journals or conference proceedings – conducted by academic and professional peers based upon the specific policies and requirements of each discipline’s scholarship outlets.
5. Research and grant proposal reviews – conducted by academic and/or professional peers on behalf of funding institutions based upon the specifications required to secure funding for research or other forms of scholarly pursuit.

Through all of these processes, even though the specific content, format, or procedures may vary by department/unit, faculty and administrators fulfill their responsibility to formally review every faculty member’s professional performance. This set of post-tenure evaluations, when consistently and fairly conducted by academic units, affords tenured members of the faculty the opportunity for reflection, as well as for peer and administrative review.

If in any six year period a faculty member does not meaningfully participate in the review processes identified in items 1 through 5, above, then he or she must be reviewed by a separate peer review process developed and approved by the department. This process must be conducted by peers (who need not be limited to other departmental colleagues) and should include, at a minimum, all components of the current annual/biennial review.

Section 3: Rationale and Philosophy

A. Rationale

In recent years, the issue of accountability has garnered significant attention in higher education. Although reservations have been raised regarding this trend, a significant number of educational and political leaders now recognize the importance of enhanced accountability.

The types of questions being asked by policymakers at the state and federal level are not unlike concerns expressed by the Board of Trustees and members of the faculty at the University of Dayton. In particular, there is a clear awareness that the University must have procedures that enable faculty members to document their individual and collective excellence and to do so within a professional context that allows for appropriate and timely peer assessments and reviews.

The faculty of the University of Dayton is a community of academic professionals who recognize and accept their responsibility for self-reflection as well as for peer and administrative evaluation and feedback on their scholarship, teaching, and service. Both formative and summative evaluations of their work, conducted in the spirit of the University of Dayton’s Catholic Marianist traditions, contribute to the success of every faculty member’s academic career.

This statement on the review of tenured faculty by peers and administrators is consistent with the values of the University and its faculty. The subsequent sections of this statement describe the philosophy that guides the use of these processes, AAUP evaluation guidelines, the benefits of a post-tenure review to the faculty, to academic departments and units, and to the University, and finally, the 7 As a result of vigorous national debate and the increased focus on accountability, many higher education institutions are now posting on their websites specific performance-related data to allow constituents the opportunity to make direct institutional comparisons. These comparisons are engendering a variety of interesting research and public policy questions like these: Are appropriate accountability measures in place to ensure that all students receive high quality educational opportunities at an appropriate and affordable price? Are faculty members fulfilling their responsibilities to students and institutional stakeholders to deliver the curriculum effectively to all students attending private or public higher education institutions?

8 Formative evaluation is designed to improve performance by identifying areas for specific improvement or professional growth. The intention is not to judge success or failure but rather to identify areas where growth is both possible and appropriate and to identify how such growth might be undertaken. Summative evaluation is designed to assist in making an administrative decision about whether someone’s employment should be continued.
University administrations’ responsibility to identify faculty performance that falls below professional expectations and to take appropriate action.

B. Philosophy

The University of Dayton is dedicated to facilitating the highest level of performance for all members of the faculty. This level of performance requires a supportive, respectful work environment that offers opportunities for professional growth. Current policies and procedures for the review of tenured faculty, when viewed holistically and implemented appropriately, provide a collegial environment to support the career-long learning and professional growth of faculty and sustain, to the highest degree, the caliber of the University’s intellectual and academic life.

The faculty is a largely self-regulating community of teachers, scholars, and leaders dedicated to the generation, transmission, and application of knowledge. Along with an administration committed to providing professional opportunities throughout a faculty member’s career, the academic community holds at least three expectations of its members in order to carry out its mission:

- They are committed to generating, transmitting, and applying knowledge
- They regularly assess and critically reflect on their effectiveness as teachers, scholars, and members of the university community, and on their effectiveness as members of their profession and society; indeed, reflection is a key component of professional growth.
- They are willing, as colleagues, to provide insights and ideas to each other through involvement in a regular process of discourse and consultation.

The purpose of peer and administrator review is to help enhance each faculty member’s effectiveness as a teacher, scholar, and provider of service to the department, unit, university, profession and community. Fulfillment of these expectations is a necessity for the community to thrive and grow.

The review processes described in this statement provide an opportunity for faculty to reflect on their past academic career, assess their current status, and articulate their expectations for the future. The involvement of peers serves as a source of feedback on a faculty member’s academic career and a guide for future professional growth. Based on this feedback, each faculty member assumes responsibility for the pursuit of his/her own professional development.9

Administrative and peer involvement in the review of tenured faculty promotes systematic formative appraisals for tenured faculty in the spirit of the Marianist traditions of community. It is the responsibility of the faculty in every academic unit to insure that these processes, as appropriate, are in

In their totality, these existing processes emphasize informed reflection, express the culture of the university, and support the University’s commitment to excellence.

C. AAUP Guidelines

When viewed in total, the University of Dayton’s processes for reviewing tenured faculty members are largely consistent with the guiding principles advanced by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). The AAUP recognizes that since the mid-1990s, state legislative bodies, boards of trustees and university administrators have called for making post-tenure reviews mandatory. Therefore, the AAUP offers the following guiding principles.

1. Post-tenure review should be aimed at development.
2. Post-tenure review should be under the control of the faculty.
3. Post-tenure review must not be a re-evaluation of tenure.
4. Post-tenure review must not be used to show cause for dismissing a faculty member.
5. Post-tenure review must protect academic freedom.

D. Benefits of a Review of Tenured Faculty by Peers and Administrators

The core value of the review of tenured faculty by peers and administrators is to advance the University in ways consistent with its Marianist traditions, mission, and vision of excellence. Collectively, the existing processes for review, as described in this document, assure peer involvement, appropriate implementation across all academic units, and fairness to all. Together, the current processes, accomplish the following:

- Provide the opportunity for faculty members to reflect critically on their academic career and their contribution to the university and the profession, intentionally articulate future ambitions, and receive formative feedback from academic colleagues.
- Inform colleagues of a faculty member’s expertise and body of work and provide them the opportunity to contribute to shaping that work to enhance its contribution to the academic community.

Based on Post-Tenure Review: An AAUP Response, approved by the Association’s Committee on Academic Freedom and Tenure, June, 1999
Inform strategic plans at all levels of the organization, including the allocation of faculty resources by the department and/or unit, the determination of future faculty needs, and the allocation of organizational resources for the professional growth and advancement of faculty.

E. Identification of Performance by a Tenured Faculty Member That Falls Below Expectations

Understanding that the principal purpose of post-tenure review is formative, members of the faculty of the University of Dayton also recognize that these same processes of review provide summative information by which to identify a faculty member whose professional performance falls below expectations. Faculty and administrators have the responsibility to identify in a timely manner those members of the faculty whose professional performance does not meet the University’s expectations and administrators have the authority to take appropriate actions that may lead to the revocation of tenure and dismissal.\(^{11}\) Conditions for the discontinuation of tenure and/or employment are clearly articulated in the University of Dayton Faculty Policy and Governance Handbook, Section IV.3, University Regulations on Academic Freedom and Tenure. These regulations, including a detailed procedure for the termination of an appointment with tenure, were approved by a vote of the faculty and by the Board of Trustees and were effective as of August 15, 1996.\(^{12}\)

F. Proposal: Clarification and Modification of the Post Tenure Review Policy

It is proposed that the policy for the review of tenured faculty in Section IV.4.C.(2)b of the University of Dayton Faculty Policy and Governance Handbook, August 2009, be amended as follows:

b. Each tenured faculty member must be evaluated by peers, using a method acceptable to the department, at least once during each six-year interval. Departmental post tenure review plans generally need not involve evaluation processes in addition to those by which faculty members are commonly evaluated, as long as a peer evaluation component is included. (See also Senate Document I-06-11, approved Month Day, Year.)

G. Requirements for Implementation

The following actions are necessary for the full and successful implementation of the University of Dayton’s post tenure review policy.

\(^{11}\) See the 1958 Statement on Procedural Standards in Faculty Dismissal Proceedings, prepared by a joint committee of the Association of American Colleges and Universities and the AAUP, for guidelines.

\(^{12}\) University of Dayton Faculty Policy and Governance Handbook, August 2009, Section IV.3, pages 45-50.
1. The Provost and Deans must ensure that the annual/biennial review procedures of each unit are consistent with the policy already contained in the University of Dayton Faculty Policy and Governance Handbook as outlined and footnoted in Section 2 above.

2. The Provost and Deans must ensure that each department/unit develops an approved procedure for the peer evaluation of teaching effectiveness for tenured faculty members. Such evaluation must occur at least once in every six year period and be conducted only by peers who hold tenure at this or another university.\(^\text{13}\) \(^\text{14}\)

3. The Provost and Deans must ensure that each department/unit develops an approved peer review process for members of their faculty who fail to participate in existing processes in a manner sufficient to satisfy the six-year peer review requirement.

4. The Provost and Deans must ensure that each department/unit develops an approved post tenure review plan which is agreeable to its members and place a copy on file with a University official designated by the Provost.\(^\text{14}\)

\(^{13}\) Those identified as peers for this purpose need not be limited to colleagues in the same department or unit. For example, peers may be tenured members of the faculty in a related field, though in a different department or unit, or they may be faculty in the same discipline and employed at another academic institution.
