

2-26-2018

Briefly Speaking

University of Dayton

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/news_rls

Recommended Citation

University of Dayton, "Briefly Speaking" (2018). News Releases. 11044.
https://ecommons.udayton.edu/news_rls/11044

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marketing and Communications at eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in News Releases by an authorized administrator of eCommons. For more information, please contact frice1@udayton.edu, mschlange1@udayton.edu.

Monday February 26, 2018

Briefly Speaking

Physiologist wins national award. Upcoming events focus on social change, art, music and professional development.

PHYSIOLOGIST WINS INNOVATIVE EDUCATOR AWARD

University of Dayton physiologist Anne Crecelius will bring new technology into the classroom through a national prize that recognizes innovative teachers. Crecelius won the American Physiological Society's 2018 ADInstruments Macknight Early Career Innovative Educator award, which is providing the latest equipment for her students to conduct physiology experiments. Full details are available here. For more information, contact Meagan Pant, assistant director of news and communications, at mpant1@udayton.edu or 937-229-3256.

IMPACT CONFERENCE FOCUSES ON SERVICE, ACTION, ADVOCACY MARCH 1-4

The University of Dayton will host the national IMPACT Conference, which brings together college students, non-profit professionals, campus administrators, and teams of service members to share experiences, stories and resources in their work for social change. About 600 people are expected to attend the conference March 1-4. More information is available online. For more information, contact Meagan Pant, assistant director of news and communication, at mpant1@udayton.edu or 937-229-3256.

ARTSLIVE CONTINUES WITH TANGO MARCH 7

The traditional "two to tango" dictum is upended by Cuarteto Tanguero, a chamber quartet from Bloomington, Indiana. While there won't be any dancing on stage at the University of Dayton's Sears Recital Hall, there will be plenty of great tango music at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 7. Cuarteto Tanguero's chamber format — violin, piano, bass and bandoneón — allows the group to bring tango to a

LATEST NEWS

Changing Face of Engineering

The Stanford University Hasso Plattner Institute of Design (d.school) named four University of Dayton students to a global program that empowers student leaders to increase campus engagement through innovation, entrepreneurship and creativity.

READ MORE

Thriving Program

Enrollment in the University of Dayton School of Law's graduate program in government contracting and procurement has been more popular than anticipated since starting last summer, according to Dean Andy Strauss.

READ MORE

broad listenership, not just avid ballroom dancers. Now popular worldwide, tango emerged as a dance music in the late 19th century in an area along the natural border between Argentina and Uruguay. Full details are available here.

VANGUARD LEGACY CONCERT SERIES CONTINUES MARCH 11

Recent research suggests that music really is a universal language. The members of the St. Petersburg Piano Quartet — who will perform at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 11, at the University of Dayton’s Sears Recital Hall — would probably agree. Each comes from a very different background and culture, but together they play music that speaks to them all. The quartet will appear at the University of Dayton as part of the Vanguard Legacy program, presented by ArtsLIVE. The Legacy concerts extend the heritage of a beloved chamber music series established in 1962 by Elana and Vincent Bolling at the Dayton Art Institute. Since 2015, Vanguard Legacy Concerts have made their home at the University, thanks to an endowment from the Bollings. More information is available on the ArtsLIVE website.

NEW EXHIBIT OPENS AT MARIAN LIBRARY MARCH 19

A new exhibit, “Luke’s Portrait of the Madonna: Interpreting Luke in Painting and Calligraphy,” opens at the Marian Library March 19 and runs through April 20. It is free and open to the public during library hours. It shows how Ann Bain captures Mary’s words as found in the New Testament. It also includes lithographs by André Bergeron that convey his empathy for Luke’s Mary. The result of this artistic dialogue is a Madonna for mind and heart. The library is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year. More information is available online.

UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON RECRUITING FOR DAYTON CORP SUMMER SERVICE

Dayton Corps, an AmeriCorps program through ServeOhio, is recruiting for summer service positions. The program is run through the University of Dayton Fitz Center for Leadership in Community. Positions are available in three areas May 16 to Aug. 31 — neighborhood leadership development, housing insecurity and employment, and education. The Education Corps members engage youth in education activities at either the Madden Hills or Northwest

Briefly Speaking

Physiologist wins national award.

Upcoming events focus on social change, art, music and professional development.

READ MORE

library. The Neighborhood Corps serves out of city hall and engages residents and stakeholders in community organizing in Edgemont/Carillon, Westwood and Residence Park neighborhoods. The Opportunity Corps members assist clients at local homeless shelters. These members serve at either St. Vincent, Daybreak, Homefull or Montgomery County Homeless Solutions. Members will also participate in weekly member trainings and statewide AmeriCorps trainings and events. Stipends for living expenses are available, and members may be eligible for an AmeriCorps education award upon completion of their term of service. Apply online here and learn more about the program here.

UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON EXHIBIT CHALLENGES AUDIENCE TO QUESTION SELFIE CULTURE

A new exhibit at the University of Dayton's Radial Gallery will feature self-portraits by artist Haley Morris-Cafiero along with text which calls on the audience to question the relationship of social media, selfie culture and how people critique each other. "Wait Watchers" runs Feb. 22 to March 22. It is free and open to the public. A reception with the artist will be held at 5 p.m. Feb. 22. The gallery is located on the second floor of Fitz Hall. Gallery hours and parking information are available online. For additional information contact gallery coordinator Nicholaus Arnold at 937-229-3204 or narnold1@udayton.edu.

FORUM EXAMINES VIRGIN MARY — YESTERDAY AND TODAY

The International Marian Research Institute (IMRI) will help chart the future of Marian studies by evaluating the current state of this theological discipline and identifying the latest trends and areas of neglect. IMRI will present its findings at its next Marian Forum at the University of Dayton April 6. Being organized around the theme of "Mary — Yesterday and Today," the two-hour forum will be the sixth in a continuing series of free academic gatherings that IMRI has been sponsoring online to promote the study of the Blessed Virgin Mary. More information is available here. For interviews, contact assistant director of news and communications Meagan Pant at mpant1@udayton.edu or 937-229-3256.

UPCOMING UNIVERSITY OF DAYTON CENTER FOR LEADERSHIP PROGRAMS

Supervisory Leadership Certificate Program

The Center for Leadership is accepting applications for the next session of this 10-session program that starts April 17. The Supervisory Leadership Certificate Program is a development program spanning six months for leaders in public, private and not-for-profit organizations. This program will assist front-line leaders or anyone preparing for a leadership role in developing skills to help them maximize individual and team performance. Upon completion of the program, they also receive two additional days of Supervisor and Professional Development programs. The cost is $4,300; $4,000 for partner organizations. Supervisory Leadership Certificate facilitators average a 4.5 on a five-point scale in participant reviews. Participants in the most recently completed cohort report a 43.5 percent increase in their competency level. One participant said: "I have found most valuable the ability to listen to and to be exposed to individuals from all over the region, as well as to be able to share in their insights and gain an appreciation for the similarities and differences among us."

Professional Development Programs

March 1: "IMPROVing Interpersonal Communication." Leaders with a mastery of the various facets of communication are becoming increasingly rare. Acquiring these skills can be overwhelming, and can leave some thinking they may just not have what it takes. This course will use the proven methods of improvisation training to identify weaknesses and create new strengths.

March 6: "Fostering Inclusion: Building Cross Cultural Capabilities." Participants will learn how to analyze management situations and make recommendations using models for understanding personality and cultural differences; apply the latest business knowledge and trends to scenarios for the best outcomes; and describe their values and perspectives and how they can best adapt and apply them in the cross-cultural business arena.

March 8: "Leadership is Everyone's Business." Participants will discover how they have shown leadership to meet business and personal challenges, allowing them to gain the confidence and skill to increase their use of the Five Practices of Exemplary Leaders.

March 9: "Negotiating for Positive Results." This session will help participants understand the differences between distributive and integrative negotiations; how our cognitive biases shape the way we negotiate; and the complexities of negotiating in a team or multi-party setting.

March 13-14: "Project Management Essentials I & II." This program focuses on the practical skills, tools and techniques used to effectively manage all phases of a project — initiation, planning, execution and closing. Participants will work on a practical case study project in small groups to clarify the project's goal and objectives, identify deliverables, create a work breakdown structure and build a schedule.

March 20: "Time Management and Personal Productivity." This session will help with establishing and scheduling priorities, navigating common productivity obstacles and engaging others productively.

March 22: "Assertiveness. Communicating with Impact" This program will help leaders identify their preference for one of the four personal influence styles and learn how individual styles may hamper interpersonal communication.

April 10: "Navigating Difficult Conversations." This interactive workshop helps participants build strong communication and conflict resolution skills plus understand the casualties of unresolved conflict — productivity loss and employee turnover, among others.

April 19: "Advanced Project Management." This one-day class is a follow-up for participants in Project Management Essentials I & II. This class includes a two-hour exercise in which participants work in teams to make decisions and develop a project schedule for a very demanding client.

April 24: "Emotional Intelligence: Becoming More Effective in Reaching Others." Participants will learn how to recognize and identify emotions that drive behaviors, and how to manage those emotions to be effective in personal and professional interactions. Participants also will learn about negotiation, power, influence, teamwork, development and service orientation.

April 26: "Coaching and Evaluating Performance." This session is designed to enhance management skills and prepare participants for the changing demands of today's workforce. Participants will learn concepts and skills to develop the skills of staff members or correct performance issues.

The cost for a professional development program is $395 for the general public, $345 for University of Dayton alumni and $299 for center partners.

Executive Development Programs

March 7: "Cross-Cultural Communications: Strategies for Success in Today's Multicultural Workforce" with Craig Storti, a nationally known figure in the field of intercultural communications and cross-cultural adaptation and the author of several books including, The Art of Doing Business Across Cultures.

April 12: "The Energy Bus: 10 Rules to Fuel Your Life, Work, and Team with Positive Energy" (a.m.) and "Training Camp: What the Best Do Better Than Everyone" (p.m.) with Jon Gordon, the best-selling author of The Energy Bus, Training Camp and The Power of Positive Leadership who is listed among Inc's "Top 100 Leadership Speakers for 2018." Gordon's principles also have been put to the test by numerous Fortune 500 companies, professional and college sports teams, hospitals, and non-profits.

The cost for executive development programs is $995 for the general public, $945 for University of Dayton alumni and $897 for center partners.

All sessions for every program run all day, unless otherwise noted, and will be on the University of Dayton River Campus at the 1700 South Patterson Building.

For more information about Center for Leadership programs and to register, call 937-229-3115 or visit the Center for Leadership website.

SHARE

TOPICS

- ◆ Human Rights
- ◆ Fine and Performing Arts
- ◆ Faith/Mission
- ◆ Faculty and Staff
- ◆ Libraries
- ◆ Business