

4-24-2019

Happy Records and Information Management Month!

Amy Rohmiller
University of Dayton

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/ul_blog

eCommons Citation

Rohmiller, Amy, "Happy Records and Information Management Month!" (2019). University Libraries Blog Archive. 236.

https://ecommons.udayton.edu/ul_blog/236

This Blog is brought to you for free and open access by the University Libraries at eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in University Libraries Blog Archive by an authorized administrator of eCommons. For more information, please contact mschlangen1@udayton.edu, ecommons@udayton.edu.

University Libraries

Blogs at UD / University of Dayton Libraries / Happy Records and Information Management Month!

Blogs at UD →

University Libraries Blog →

University Libraries Website →

Marian Library Blog →

Get RSS Feed →

Subscribe to UD Newsletter →

WEDNESDAY APRIL 24, 2019

Happy Records and Information Management Month!

By Amy Rohmiller

April is Records and Information Management Month.

Never heard of records and information management? Neither had I until I took my first archives class, but it's a crucial part of what archivists do. As part of its day-to-day operations, the University generates a lot of records — or documentation of the business of the University. In University archives, it's our job to manage those records that have historical value and can tell people in the future about what UD was like in the past.

We have a lot of different types of records in the University archives, dating back to when the University was founded in 1850. We collect everything from documents generated by the president's office to photographs of campus to material from student organizations to faculty papers to old versions of UD websites.

We manage these records and the information they contain by not only collecting them, but also arranging them and describing them so that they can be found and used. Our records in University archives are generally arranged by keeping everything created by a single department, office, organization, or person together in one collection. We describe collections in documents called "finding aids" so that researchers and users can know what is in each collection and how they can find the material they are interested in. The finding aids for University archives' collections are available in ArchivesSpace.

We also take steps to preserve records we collect so that they will last long into the future. For paper records, we remove any staples or paperclips that might rust; unfold

PREVIOUS POST

'Parks and Roesch': Treat Yo' Self to a Successful Finals Week

With waffles, miniature horses and more, finals are "Knope 'roblem."

Read More

NEXT POST

Top 10: The Best of Government Documents of the Past 50 Years

Librarians go Letterman to mark 50 years in FDLP.

Read More

and flatten documents that are folded; and store them in acid-free boxes and folders. We store all our collections in rooms that are tightly controlled for temperature and humidity. If our materials get too hot, too cold, too dry or too wet, they start to deteriorate faster.

By preserving, arranging and describing university records, we act as the “memory keepers” of the University and help students, faculty, the Dayton community and researchers anywhere know what was happening at UD in years gone by. If you or your organization have records that you think have value and can keep memories of your time here alive, please consider donating them to the University archives.

— Amy Rohmiller is an associate University archivist in the University Archives and Special Collections.

Share

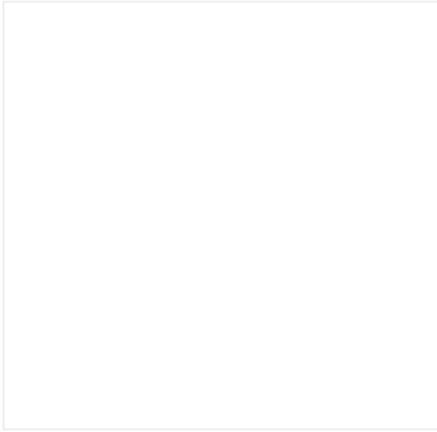

Topics

- 📖 Libraries
- 📖 Libraries

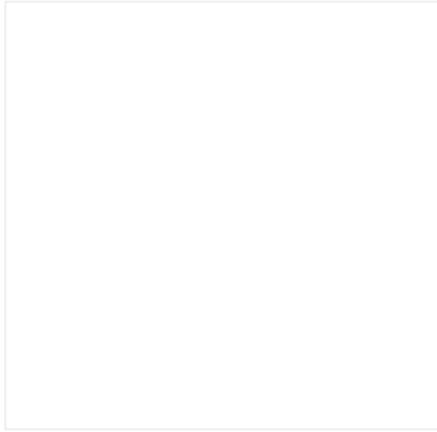

Aptly ▾

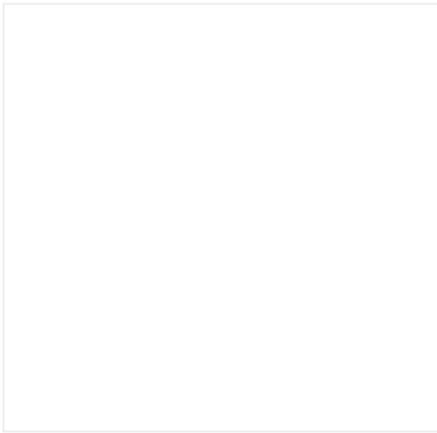

What's Trending

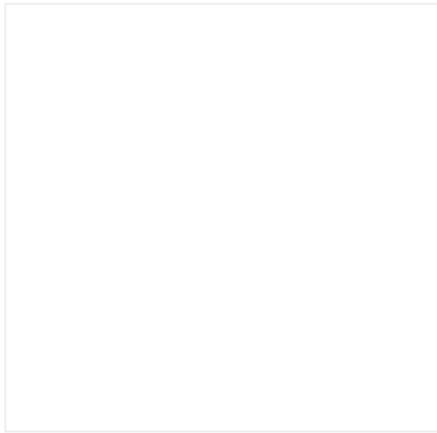

UD in the News April 1-8

As war rages, some Ukrainians look to Mary for protection – continuing a long Christian tradition

One Day to Impact UD in So Many Ways

Flyer fashionista

Powered by

Apply →

Careers

Visit →

Contact

300 College Park
Dayton, Ohio
45469

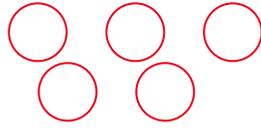

937-229-1000

info@udayton.edu

Directions

Request
Info →

Give →

Academic Calendar

Alumni

Libraries

PORCHES POLICIES REPORT A CONCERN PRIVACY & TERMS NONDISCRIMINATION DIVERSITY

