Education in Dayton; A Social Justice Service Club Project

Stephanie F. Bartol
University of Dayton, stander@udayton.edu

Mary M. Cook
University of Dayton, stander@udayton.edu

Pamela R. Malone
University of Dayton, stander@udayton.edu

Kelsey L. Radabaugh
University of Dayton, stander@udayton.edu

Follow this and additional works at: http://ecommons.udayton.edu/stander_posters

Recommended Citation

http://ecommons.udayton.edu/stander_posters/239
This service done was through the Social Justice Club in partnership with Holy Angels School. We assisted students in their after school science projects. We helped students by answering questions and assisting in building and other tasks. The service was done at Holy Angels school and took place after the school day was over. The kids presented their work in National Science Olympiad (NSO) competitions.

Education in America

Education systems across America and other countries are suffering. Schools can’t afford to hire enough teachers and tutors, or books and resources. Children are suffering because of a lack of funding. Impoverished children receive the worst of the education system. The lack of knowledge sets these children up for failure and leads to even more poverty. There is a viscous cycle of poverty and lack of education going on in America.

Why Volunteer?

This service was done because of the pressing needs within the education system. Numerous schools are lacking adequate resources to provide children with even the most average of education. Our group decided to help children find resources to gain access to knowledge outside of school.