I. Introduction

These “Processes and Procedures” are intended to facilitate the smooth and transparent functioning of the Academic Senate at the University of Dayton.

The Academic Senate was approved through a process that involved a faculty vote and a vote of the Board of Trustees in 1981. Since then, the Academic Senate has acted on numerous issues and established processes, procedures, and policies. The Executive Committee recognizes the need to provide members of the Academic Senate and the University community with a single document that summarizes the decisions that have been made by the Academic Senate in relationship to its responsibilities and processes in order to better conduct the business of the Academic Senate.

This document should be viewed as an on-going project, and should be reviewed and updated on an annual basis by the Executive Committee and the Academic Senate.

Information related to membership of the Academic Senate, minutes of meetings, and actions of the Academic Senate is available at:

II. Academic Senate

A. Membership in the Academic Senate is set out in Article IV of the Constitution. This Article specifies that the membership of the Academic Senate consists of 39 voting members. (See Appendix A)

B. Members of the Academic Senate are responsible for initiating and formulating the academic and educational policies of the University of Dayton within the parameters set out in the Constitution. All members are expected to familiarize themselves with the Constitution and with the decisions that have been made by the Academic Senate over its history since 1981. Each member serves on one of the standing committees of the Academic Senate and is also expected to develop an expertise in the area of that committee. Members are expected to communicate with and regularly engage their constituencies in discussion of the issues that are before the Academic Senate. Senators who are on sabbatical may continue to serve on the Academic Senate. They are expected to meet all obligations, including attendance at committee meetings. If they are not able to meet these obligations, they should contact the President of the Senate and ask to be replaced for the sabbatical period.

C. Procedures for calling and conducting meetings of the full Academic Senate are set out in the Constitution, Article V. The following points include some of that information as well as information on current practices related to the meetings of the Academic Senate.

- The Academic Senate must meet at least once in each of the fall and spring terms. Usually monthly meetings are scheduled. The Academic Senate meetings are scheduled for 3:00 p.m. on Fridays. Note: As a result of class time schedule changes, Academic Senate meetings will begin at 3:30 p.m. on Fridays starting in the Fall, 2015.
- Attendance by more than half of the Senators (21 or more) constitutes a quorum.
- The Academic Senate functions using Robert's Rules of Order and has an appointed parliamentarian.
- Meetings of the Academic Senate and the agendas for such meetings must be announced to the University community at least one week prior to a scheduled meeting. The agendas are set by the Executive Committee and the President of the Academic Senate works with a liaison in the Provost Office to ensure that announcements are sent out by e-mail.
- The Constitution provides a process for calling special meetings.

D. Processes and procedures for the functioning of the Academic Senate are outlined in the Constitution. In addition, the Academic Senate has made decisions about specific processes and procedures through approval of Senate documents and has developed practices in relationship to other processes and procedures. This document summarizes official decisions as well as processes and procedures that are in place as of the academic year 2014-2015.

III. Officers and Parliamentarian of the Academic Senate

Process for the election of the officers of the Academic Senate and the specific duties of those officers are set out in the Constitution and, in the case of the Vice-President, in a document of the Academic Senate. The duties of the Parliamentarian of the Academic Senate are not specified in the Constitution. The following also includes tasks and responsibilities that have been taken on by these officers but which are not specified in the official documents, as well as the duties of the Parliamentarian of the Academic Senate.

A. Election of Officers of the Academic Senate is set out in the Constitution of the Academic Senate in Section VI. A. 6. and C. 1 and 2. Currently, the new members of the Executive Committee are elected at the first meeting of the new Academic Senate. This normally takes place immediately after the last spring semester meeting of the outgoing Senate. The Executive Committee is first elected and then the officers are elected from the members of the Executive Committee.

B. Responsibilities of the President

- Calls the meetings of the Academic Senate (Meetings for the Academic Senate need to be planned two years in advance. See the Calendar of Activities in the Appendices).
- Chairs the meetings of the Academic Senate
- Calls the meetings of the Executive Committee
- Chairs the meetings of the Executive Committee
- Calls meetings of the entire faculty to discuss Senate action
- Carries out additional responsibilities not specified in the Constitution of the Academic Senate (The President may appoint a representative to carry out specific additional responsibilities.)
 - Serves on the President's Council
 - Serves on the Provost's Council
 - Serves on various University committees as the representative of the faculty, including the University Policies & Procedures Committee and the International Education Council
 - Attends University social events as the representative of the faculty
 - Attends meetings of the standing committees as requested
 - Attends sessions of the meetings of the Board of Trustees as requested by the Provost

C. Responsibilities of the Vice-President

Responsibilities are set out in DOC 1984-01. These are:

- In the absence of the President of the Academic Senate, call and chair meetings of the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate.

- In the absence of the President of the Academic Senate and with the approval of the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate, call and chair meetings of the Academic Senate.
- Serves on the University Nominating and Recruitment Committee
- May serve as liaison between the Senate, its committees, and other University Committees, Councils, and Boards.
- Carries out additional responsibilities not specified in this document

D. Responsibilities of the Secretary

- Records minutes for the meetings of the Academic Senate and the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate.
- Promulgates minutes through appropriate means (Web site, e-mail, Academic Senate group on Porches, and listserv distribution) to members of the Academic Senate and the wider University community
- Communicates actions of the Academic Senate to the Provost for required action.
- Oversees the Senate Web site and Porches channel.
- Maintains the issues list for the Academic Senate.
- Works with the Office of the Provost to ensure that records of the Academic Senate are archived at the end of each academic year.

E. Parliamentarian—The University of Dayton Academic Senate

The Parliamentarian of the University of Dayton Academic Senate acts as an advisor to the President of the Academic Senate (or other presiding officer) at all regular and special meetings of the Academic Senate, on matters of parliamentary procedure. Matters of parliamentary procedure include issues such as the order of proceedings, the priority of motions, the timeliness of motions and debates, and the vote necessary to sustain motions. Matters of parliamentary procedure are governed by the Constitution and Processes and Procedures of the Academic Senate, and as specified in the Constitution, Robert's Rules of Order. The advice given by the Parliamentarian to the President of the Academic Senate or other presiding officer is provided in the form of an interpretation of a rule, opinion on a rule, or a citation to a particular rule. The Parliamentarian does not issue rulings on matters of parliamentary procedure. The President of the Academic Senate, or other presiding officer, is the only person who can issue a ruling on a matter of parliamentary procedure. The ruling of the President or other presiding officer is subject to review by the Senate through a Motion to Appeal the Decision.

A person holding the position of Parliamentarian should have a strong working knowledge of the provisions of the Constitution and Processes and Procedures of the Academic Senate, and of Robert's Rules of Order. Familiarity with the history, traditions and customs of the Academic Senate is also helpful in carrying out the duties of the Parliamentarian.

IV. Executive Committee of the Academic Senate

A. The process for the election of members of the Executive Committee is set out in Section VI. E. of the Constitution.

- Because members of the Executive Committee are elected for two-year terms, there are times when these terms cannot be completed. This may be because a representative leaves the University, takes sabbatical leave or some other form of leave, or is not re-elected to the Academic Senate.
- If a member of the Executive Committee is unable to complete the full two-year term, elections are held for a one-year replacement to complete the term.
- This creates a two-year cycle for election of the following positions:
 - Year 1
Humanities
Natural Sciences
Business
Dean
 - Year 2
Social Sciences
Education
Engineering
- Other member of the Executive Committee are appointed as follows:
 - Law has only one faculty representative and so that person is automatically on the Executive Committee
 - The Library has only one faculty representative and so that person is automatically on the Executive Committee
 - The undergraduate student representative is replaced yearly.
 - The graduate student representative is replaced yearly.

B. Responsibilities of the Executive Committee are also set out in VI. E. of the Constitution. Important responsibilities include:

- Set the Agenda for meetings of the Academic Senate.
- Appoint members of all Academic Senate committees. This includes sub-committees of the standing committees (for example, the Common Academic Program and Competencies Committee).
- When needed in April, consult with Student Development and then appoint an incoming or just re-elected Senator to serve a 3-year term as the faculty representative on the Judicial Review Committee.
- Facilitate the deliberations and actions of the Academic Senate, including coordination of activities among its committees. This includes receiving and assigning documents (See Section VI).
- Coordinate Academic Senate activities, through the Office of the Provost, with University-wide Committees, Councils, and Boards.

- Meet at least once a semester with the President, the Provost and the Vice President for Finance and Administrative Services of the University to discuss budgetary and other administrative issues and decisions. These sessions will occur during ECAS' regularly scheduled meetings.
- Assure that committees of the Academic Senate:
 - Adhere to the principle of mandatory consultation with University administrators affected by committee action.
 - Are constituted in a way that reflects the charter of the committee.
 - Receive clear directions concerning their powers and responsibilities along with appropriate deadlines.
 - Report as charged.
 - Conduct appropriate hearings on the topics under discussion.
- The Executive Committee has the power to establish temporary procedures and take action in cases in which the Constitution provides no guidance, such procedures being subject to approval of the Academic Senate at its next meeting.

In addition:

- The Executive Committee has responsibility for working with appropriate bodies, such as the University Nominations and Recruitment Committee, to ensure that University committees are maintained and appropriately appointed.
- The Executive Committee is responsible for communicating with the University Elections Committee to ensure that elections for the Academic Senate are held annually.
- The Executive Committee is responsible for ensuring that elections are held for membership of the University Promotion and Tenure Committee and receives the annual report of that Committee.
- The Executive Committee is responsible for monitoring the Faculty Handbook to ensure that all actions of the Academic Senate are appropriately incorporated into the Handbook by the responsible person in the Provost Office.

ECAS responsibilities in specific years:

- April 2018 -- Consult with Student Development, and then select a new faculty representative for the Judicial Review Committee.

C. Processes and Procedures

- Meetings are called by the President of the Academic Senate
- Meeting times are set to accommodate the schedules of all members. If no such time can be found, times are varied in order to assure that all members can attend regularly.
- Quorum: Attendance by more than half of its membership constitutes a quorum for conducting business at meetings of the Executive Committee.

- Voting: While most issues brought before the Executive Committee are acted on by consensus arrived at through discussion, any member may request a vote on any issue that is before the Executive Committee. When a vote is taken, a simple majority of the quorum present is required for passing a motion.
- Minutes are recorded by the Secretary of the Academic Senate and are promulgated in accord with the Constitution of the Academic Senate.
- A member of the Faculty Board attends the meetings of the Executive Committee as a non-voting participant.

V. Standing Committees of the Academic Senate

There are three standing committees: Academic Policies Committee, Faculty Affairs Committee, and Student Academic Policies Committee. Each member of the Academic Senate is also a member of one of the Standing Committees. The duties and responsibilities of the standing committees are set out in the first document of the Academic Senate (DOC 1981-01).

A. Responsibilities

The general duties and responsibilities of each of the standing committees include:

- Considering all policies in the specific area of the committee as referred by the Executive Committee. These policies may be reviewed under legislative authority or legislative concurrence or in a consultative capacity. The initial determination of the type of action is made by the Executive Committee.
- Initiating changes in these policies for consideration by the Academic Senate
- Regularly reviewing all policies in the respective area and recommending changes as needed. (The standing committees have standing oversight over a range of issues. These are listed on the issues list maintained by the Secretary of the Academic Senate.)
- Developing expertise in the areas where consultation may be needed.

B. Appointment

- Members of the standing committees are appointed by the Executive Committee. Normally, members are asked to provide a ranking of their preferences. The Executive Committee tries to balance the membership on committees, ensuring the participation of faculty, students, and deans on each committee
- The Faculty Board may appoint a non-voting representative to each of the standing committees.
- The Provost appoints an associate provost as a non-voting representative to each of the standing committees.

C. Selection of Officers

- Each standing committee elects a chairperson for the academic year. Normally this happens at the organizational meeting of the Academic Senate.

- The standing committees may elect other officers as needed. For example, a standing committee may determine to have a secretary to maintain the minutes.

D. Processes and Procedures

- Setting of Meeting Times and Publication of Meetings
 - Meeting times are set to accommodate the schedules of all members. If no such time can be found, times are varied in order to assure that all members can attend regularly.
 - Meetings and agendas are to be publicized in advance so that interested members of the University community can attend. (See DOC 1981-01)
- Quorum: Attendance by more than half of its membership constitutes a quorum for conducting business at meetings of the Standing Committees.
- Voting: While most issues brought before the standing committees are acted on by consensus arrived at through discussion, any member may request a vote on any issue that is before the committee. When a vote is taken, a simple majority of the quorum present is required for passing a motion.
- Minutes: Each standing committee maintains minutes of every meeting. Minutes of the previous meeting should be approved at each meeting. Once these minutes are approved, they are sent to the Secretary of the Academic Senate and are posted on the Senate Web site and on the Porches channel. . All members of the Academic Senate are notified of the posting of these minutes. Unapproved minutes should be circulated to members of the standing committee in a timely manner so that they can be reviewed. Unapproved minutes should also be sent to members of the Executive Committee so that they are well-informed about the work of the Academic Senate. This can be accomplished by posting them in the appropriate place on the Senate Web site.
- Reports to full Senate: By the start of each meeting of the full Academic Senate, each standing committee chair should give the secretary of the Senate an electronic copy of the report he or she will present.
- Annual Reports: Each standing committee sends an annual report to the Secretary of the Academic Senate for inclusion in the minutes of the final meeting of each academic year.
- Each Standing Committee maintains an issues list and communicates that regularly to the Secretary of the Academic Senate for posting on the Senate Web site.

VI. Procedures for Handling Proposals Submitted to the Academic Senate

Document 1982-07 sets out the procedures for handling documents submitted to the Academic Senate. Since the passage of that document, the Constitution has been changed to that the President of the Academic Senate is a faculty member, rather than the Provost. Because of this, the initial submission and numbering of documents has been changed by practice.

A. Initiation of proposals

- Proposals and issues are submitted to the President of the Academic Senate.
- The President places proposals and issues on the agenda for the Executive Committee.

B. Executive Committee Procedures

- The Executive Committee of the Senate reviews the proposal and makes one of the following decisions:
 - Assign the proposal to one of the standing committees.
 - Return the proposal to the originator for additional information or development.
 - Reject the proposal as not appropriate for Senate action.
 - Proceed otherwise as it deems appropriate.
- If the proposal is accepted for Senate action, the Executive Committee instructs the Secretary to number the proposal and determines the action to be taken (Legislative Authority, Legislative Concurrence, and Consultation).
- If the proposal is assigned to a committee, the Executive Committee may state specific conditions (e. g., time limits, delimitation of proposal, specific directives, etc.).
- When a proposal is sent to a specific committee, copies of the proposal are posted on the Senate Web site or on Porches so that the proposal is available to all members of the University. As the proposal undergoes significant change, revised versions are to be posted and linked to previous versions.

C. Standing Committee Procedures

- The standing committee will review the proposal, do any research which it deems necessary, consult officers it deems appropriate, etc.
- The standing committee will then rewrite the proposal in a form for appropriate Senate action, and call it a document using the same number as on the original proposal and adding a new date. All previous dates will be retained.
- When the document is in this form, the Secretary of the Academic Senate will make it available to the entire faculty. This will be done by placing it on the Senate Web site or on Porches. Faculty should be advised of posting of Senate documents.

- Open hearings are not required of every document. When appropriate, the Executive Committee will direct that an open hearing be held by the standing committee. Such hearings will be held by representative of the entire committee.
- After the hearing, if required, the standing committee will make any revisions it deems necessary, assign a new date, and submit the final document to the Executive Committee of the Senate.

D. Senate Action

- The Executive Committee will then determine if the document is ready for Senate action.
 - If a decision is made that it is ready, the Executive Committee will place the document on the next Senate agenda.
 - If a decision is made that the document is not ready, it will be returned to the appropriate standing committee along with the specific reasons for returning it.
- Once a document is on the Senate agenda, the Senate will decide the appropriate action to be taken.
- Final versions of all documents will be provided to all Senators and the entire faculty at least one week before the Senate meeting at which the document is to be discussed. This is done through the Senate Web site.

VII. Index of Actions of the Academic Senate

The Academic Senate has developed official processes and procedures on some issues and established practices on others. Senators should consult all of the documents that have come before the Academic Senate in order to understand past practice and documented practices and procedures. These are available in the university repository at: http://ecommons.udayton.edu/senate_docs/ and archived by year and number with the DOC designator (e.g., DOC 2012-07 for the seventh document created in 2012).

The following presents a summary of issues that have been acted on by the Academic Senate. Most recent actions are at the beginning of the topical lists.
