Dr. Thomas J. Hailstones, director of business administration studies at Xavier University, Cincinnati, and a frequent speaker and panelist on business programs in the Dayton area, will be one of four speakers Tuesday at the Management-Union Relations conference at the University of Dayton.

Hailstones, who has done extensive research in the labor-management field, will be joined on the program by Lloyd Brenberger, personnel director at Duriron; William Kircher, regional director of the AFL-CIO; and John B. Steinbruegge of the University of Dayton.

The one-day program in Wohlsleben Hall auditorium is designed to bring together first-line representatives of management and labor to promote mutual understanding and explore means for improving cooperation between each group.
