Fourth annual procurement conference in Dayton, O., Oct. 7 and 8, co-sponsored by the Dayton Association of Purchasing Agents and the University of Dayton, will again be headed by Dr. Howard Lewis, well-known figure in the purchasing field. Together with Mr. Stuart F. Heinritz, retired editor of Purchasing, Dr. Lewis will bring a distinctly international flavor to the annual conference. He and Mr. Heinritz have been traveling around the world directing procurement workshops and working with procurement problems.

"Procurement Methods Economics Through Electronic Data Processing Techniques" is one of a number of topics to be covered during the two-day program. Scene for this session will be the University's electronic computer facility, one of the most complete facilities of this type available. Other sessions will be held in the Patterson Memorial Center adjacent to the campus.

Other topics: "Tools for Value Analysis"; "Effecting Savings Through an Organized Approach to Source Selection"; "Are You a Buyer or a Materials Manager?"; "Cost-Saving Buying Suggestions for Small Companies"; "The Universal Language of Purchasing"; and others.

Advanced registrations may be made by contacting Prof. John B. Steinbruegge, University of Dayton, Dayton 9, Ohio.
