University of Dayton sophomore Kay Tallmadge has been named winner of the first Mary Elizabeth Jones scholarship at UD, covering full tuition and fees for the second semester of the current scholastic year.

The scholarship was established by the late Miss Jones's parents as a memorial. Miss Jones, debate coach at the University, was killed in an auto accident a year ago while returning from a debate tournament in Pittsburgh.

Miss Tallmadge, who resides at 111 Rockwood Ave. in Dayton, was a passenger in Miss Jones's car at the time of the accident.

The scholarship was awarded on the basis of the student's grade point average and her contributions to the University's debating program.
