An honor student at the University of Dayton has been named a National Science Foundation graduate fellow and will begin studies at Yale University leading toward the doctor's degree soon after graduation from UD next month.

Philip Morey, a Clevelander, was selected for the NSF fellowship following nationwide testing. The award will provide tuition and fees plus a living allowance.

A biology major at UD, Morey will study in Yale's department of biology and major in plant physiology. He plans a career either in teaching or research following completion of studies there.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Morey of 14505 Strathmore, East Cleveland, Morey is a 1958 graduate of St. Joseph's High School.

He will enroll at Yale this summer through an assistantship the school has awarded him in addition to the NSF grant.
