Call for Manuscripts

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/bcca

Part of the Higher Education Commons, Interpersonal and Small Group Communication Commons, Mass Communication Commons, Other Communication Commons, and the Speech and Rhetorical Studies Commons

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/bcca/vol30/iss1/16

This Back Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Department of Communication at eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Basic Communication Course Annual by an authorized editor of eCommons. For more information, please contact frice1@udayton.edu, mschlangen1@udayton.edu.
Submissions are invited for publication consideration in Volume 31 (2019) of the Basic Communication Course Annual. Managed by the Basic Course Division of the National Communication Association and published by the University of Dayton, the Annual publishes the best scholarship available on topics related to the basic course and is distributed nationally to scholars and educators interested in the basic communication course. Each article will be published online at http://ecommons.udayton.edu/bcca/ and indexed on the journal's website. All manuscripts submitted to the Annual will undergo blind peer review. Two or three members of the editorial board read and review each manuscript. The editor will return a manuscript without review if it is clearly outside the scope of the basic course or does not meet the requirements outlined in this call. The Annual will consider for publication the following manuscript types: full-length original research manuscripts, analysis articles, brief reports, and forum essays.

Full-Length Manuscripts

Original research articles published in the Annual are not restricted to any particular methodology or approach. They must, however, address issues that are significant to the basic course (defined broadly). Articles in the Annual may focus on the basic course in traditional or non-traditional settings. Traditional, full-length manuscripts should not exceed 30 pages, exclusive of tables and references.

Analysis Articles

The Annual will consider for publication agenda-setting or state-of-the-art reviews that make a significant original contribution through analysis and application. In addition to providing an insightful analysis of research on a basic course topic, these manuscripts should culminate in a clear delineation of specific questions scholars need to address and suggestions for how to advance the basic communication course. These manuscripts should not exceed 30 pages, exclusive of...

Brief Reports

The Annual will consider for publication brief articles that offer scale development, replication, or other noteworthy data analyses but do not require a full-length manuscript. These manuscripts can feature brief reports of meaningful data from studies that employ surveys, interviews, focus groups, or critical and/or rhetorical analysis. These manuscripts can provide scholars with the opportunity to highlight a small but meaningful portion of data. Brief reports should not exceed 5,000 words. This restriction is inclusive of the abstract, text of the document, references, footnotes, tables, and figures.

Forum Essays

In addition to traditional pieces on basic course research and pedagogy, the Annual will continue to publish the “Basic Course Forum,” which consists of selected articles addressing a specific question or topic. This feature is designed to invite scholars and basic course practitioners to propose and debate specific key questions of concern related to the basic course. Volume 31 will highlight authors’ responses to the following topics:

What curricular programs present the best opportunity for curricular connections to the basic course? Authors might consider study abroad, housing, career services, specific academic units such as business or engineering, and/or others.

Building upon conversations from the July 2018 Basic Course Institute (hosted by University of Dayton), authors should highlight the administrative successes and challenges they face as basic course directors.

The forum will consist of three to six essays in all, followed by invited responses that reflect on those papers and the nature of the issues. Essays should not exceed 1,000 words (references included). The goal is to make a succinct argument in response to the question. Submissions will undergo blind peer review.
Submission Guidelines

All manuscripts submitted to the Annual must conform to the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th edition (2009). Submitted manuscripts should follow the style template available here. Each submission must be accompanied by an abstract of 200 or fewer words (with the exception of forum essays) and a brief author identification/acknowledgements note on each author. In the cover letter to the editor, please provide (1) the manuscript title and identification of the author(s), (2) the address, telephone number, and email address of the corresponding author, and (3) data pertinent to the manuscript’s history. All references to the author(s) and institutional affiliation should be removed from the text of the manuscript.

After removing all identifiers in the properties of the document, authors should submit an electronic copy of the manuscript in Microsoft Word to the editor through the journal’s website. Manuscripts should not be under consideration by any other publishing outlet at the time of submission. By submitting to the Annual, authors maintain that they will not submit their manuscript to another outlet without first withdrawing it from consideration for the Annual. If you have any questions about the Annual or your submission, contact the editor by telephone (864-656-1567) or email BCCAeditor@clemson.edu. All submissions must be received by October 1, 2018, to receive full consideration for Volume 31.

Joseph P. Mazer
Editor, Basic Communication Course Annual
Department of Communication, Clemson University
864-656-1567
BCCAeditor@clemson.edu