New Evidence.

In 1933, BNA first published The United States Law Week. The quality of the service — the comprehensive, accurate, in-depth coverage — was self-evident from the very first issue. Clearly, a new standard had been set in legal reporting and research.

Now, BNA announces a new, enhanced Law Week — redesigned for today's attorneys. The crisp, quick-read format helps save time. The new Legal News section expands our coverage of non-decisional legal developments. And Case Alert, a quick-read summary and analysis of significant court opinions, includes links to the full text.

With access via the Web now available, you can choose the format, print or electronic, that works best for you. What's more, a new, near real-time Supreme Court docket system — U.S. Law Week's Supreme Court Today — is now available via the Web.

Now more than ever, Law Week is the standard of quality. It remains America's primary resource for significant new federal and state decisions and all proceedings in the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ask your professor for details on Law Week's low student rates, and free Case Alert, today.
