

Theatre In Union: A view into how theatre can bring communities together

Ben Remke

Drs. Bradshaw and Hayford

Theatre, Dance and Performance Technology

Theatre has always been a toll that society has used for change. In recent years this has come to the forefront with the community outside and inside the theatre. Outside we have companies creating shows that create stories for change. Inside the community we have been very critical of how we treat workers in the industries and how we can re-make our practices as to create a more welcoming and livable environment for everyone.

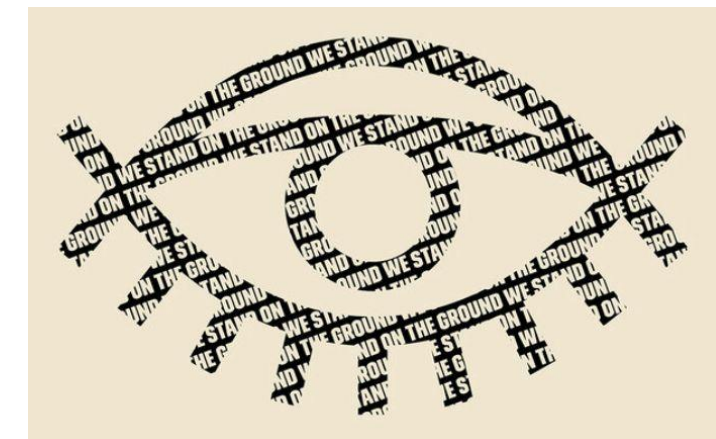

The Human Race Theatre Company

- Company who create shows that other people can watch for the betterment of society

The Cincinnati Black Theatre Company

- Community Outreach
 - Imagine That! Summer Art camp for low income families
 - Partner with Kroger rewards
 - Weekly Saturday Classes

We See You, White American Theatre

- A list of demands for change within the community
- Changing our practices to be more inclusive and equitable