The Very Reverend Raymond A. Roesch, S.M., President of the University of Dayton, today announced that tuition remission grants to keep needy students in school are being made available and will vary in amount according to the student's academic degree program.

When the new tuition of $1,000 per school year was announced (Effective September, 1966), it was made clear that no current student in good standing would have to drop out for financial reasons and that substantial sums for current students in need would be added to the Student Aid account to provide grants. (Only students enrolled at UD prior to January, 1966 will be affected. Full-time students starting in January, 1966 or after must pay the entire $1,000 per year.) These grants will cover the difference between the $25 per credit hour rate and the $1,000 flat rate. The $25 rate was necessarily selected as the base because this rate was the alternative open to the University for next school year. If this rate had been decided upon, there would have been no tuition remission grants.

The grants for each of the first two terms will vary from $10 (for Medical Technology and Mechanical Engineering students) to $120 (for Mathematics BA degree). Some academic degree programs will be no more expensive under the new tuition and, therefore, will not warrant any grant of this type; in this category are Chemical Engineering and all the Technical Institute degree programs. Amounts pertinent to other degree programs are: $110 (Communication Arts, English, Languages, Philosophy, Political Science, Sociology, and Theology); $100 (History, Psychology, BS in Mathematics, Speech, and the Cadet Teacher Program); $90 (Economics, Fine Arts, BS in Home Economics, all Business degree programs except the Associate Degree, Physical Education, Music Education, and Art Education); $80 (Bachelor of Music, and Elementary and Secondary Education); $70 (BA in Music, Computer Sciences, and Industrial Engineering); $60 (Dietetics); $50 (Geology, Physics, and Electrical Engineering); $40 (BS in Home Economics Education);
$30 (Civil Engineering and Chemistry); $20 (Biology, Pre-Medical and Pre-Dental).

To qualify for these grants, students must submit a Parents' Confidential Statement to the College Scholarship Service and an application to the Student Aid Office by April 30. For needy students enrolled during or before the fall term, SY 1965-66, the grants will continue until the student has completed eight terms. No grants of this type will be made during the summer term in as much as the tuition rate then is $25 per credit hour.

These tuition remission grants, Father Roesch emphasized, are separate from and in addition to other forms of financial assistance available - loans, tuition reductions, and other forms of grants.
