DAYTON, Ohio, June, 1966 --- Four local musical organizations will participate in the seventh annual University of Dayton "Music Under The Stars" Summer Concert series. Held on the campus, the concerts this year will include two performances by the Dayton Philharmonic Orchestra, and one concert each by the Dayton Municipal Band, the United States Air Force Logistics Command Band, and the Sweet Adelines of Kettering, a choral group.

A summer feature since 1960 the first 1966 concert will be given Friday, July 15 by the Philharmonic, conducted by Paul Katz. The Dayton Municipal Band will make a Friday, July 22 appearance under the direction of Don Bassett. The Philharmonic will return for a second concert on Thursday, July 28. The three programs will be given in the Cloister at 8:15 P.M. The Cloister is bounded by the Immaculate Conception Chapel and St. Mary's and Chaminade halls.

The final two programs will be given by the newcomers to the series. The Sweet Adelines of Kettering will be in concert on Friday, July 29, and the U.S. Air Force band will close the summer series on Wednesday, August 10. These two programs will be given in the Union Plaza which is the new area between the John F. Kennedy Memorial Union, and Sherman and Miriam halls. The Sweet Adeline program will start at 8:15 while the 48-member Air Force band, under the command of Warrant Officer Robert Allee, will perform at 8 P.M.
