"U.S. - China Policy Today" to be the Topic of an Afternoon Institute at University of Dayton

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.udayton.edu/news_rls

Recommended Citation

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Marketing and Communications at eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in News Releases by an authorized administrator of eCommons. For more information, please contact frice1@udayton.edu, mschlangen1@udayton.edu.
"U.S.-China Policy Today" will be the topic of discussion at an afternoon institute being held on the University of Dayton campus Saturday, January 29.

Featured speaker of the afternoon will be Mr. Josiah W. Bennett, Deputy Director, Office of East Asian Affairs, U.S. State Department.

A native of Cambridge, Mass., Mr. Bennett received his A.B. degree from the University of Chicago and did post-graduate work in Chinese history and literature at the same school. He has held several important positions in the government over the years including assistant public affairs officer (USIS) Nanking, China 1946-1949; public affairs officer, Taipei, Taiwan, 1951-53; Officer in Charge, Political Affairs, Office of Chinese Affairs, State Department, 1957-60; Counselor of Embassy and head of Political Section, Lagos, Nigeria.

Other speakers on the afternoon program will be: Jackson Bailey, assistant professor of history, Earlham College; Juliet S. Blanchard, member, U.S. National Commission for UNESCO; Arthur Lall, permanent representative and ambassador of India to the United Nations from 1954 to 1959 and Charles Whalen, chairman and professir, economics department at U.D.

The public is invited to attend the institute. Cost: $3 per person, $2.