DAYTON, Ohio, February 20, 1968 --- University of Dayton students will show their concern for one of America's greatest social crises next week by sponsoring "Crisis in Black and White: Discovery Week," on the campus. The week-long affair, Monday, February 26 through Friday, March 1, is co-sponsored by the Union Activities Organization and Black Action Through Unity, both student campus organizations.

Featured on the programs will be Art Thomas, Vice Principal of MacFarlane School and a Dayton Negro leader; Josh White Jr., noted entertainer; Saul Friedman, an expert on social work, and Phil Donahue, television personality on Dayton's WLW-D, Channel 2.

The Monday program will have Mr. Thomas as guest speaker in the Kennedy Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. Mr. Thomas will discuss the Negro situation in general and as it applies to education.

A trilogy of movies, entitled "The History of the Negro in America," will depict the evolution from slavery to the Freedom Movement today, will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, in the Wohlleben Hall auditorium. Phil Donahue will moderate a student panel discussion, "The Black Student Looks at UD," on Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in the Kennedy Union's Boll Theater.

Josh White also arrives on campus that day and will make appearances in the Stuart Hall, Marycrest and University Hall dormitories in the afternoon and evening. A special coffee hour from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. will be held in Kennedy Union rooms 159-160 on Thursday. Mr. White will be in concert that evening at 8:30 p.m. in the Kennedy Cafeteria.

The Intellectual Frontiers Series' lecture, "Riots, Violence and Civil Rights," by Mr. Saul Friedman of Otterbein College will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Wohlleben Hall auditorium.

The program will close Friday, March 1, with a Theater-in-the-Round production of Leroi Jones' "The Great Goodness of Life." This is a one-act play by Mr. Jones. A discussion will follow. The program will be held in the Kennedy cafeteria.

Kathy Bergman of Minster, Ohio, and Westina (Westy) Matthews of Yellow Springs, Ohio, both sophomores, are co-chairmen of the week's program.
