DAYTON, Ohio, March 27, 1968 --- The University of Dayton's Marian Library announces a series of three upcoming lectures. The first lecturer will be the Reverend A.M. Allchin of Oxford, England, who will speak Tuesday evening, April 2 at 8:00 p.m. in Wohleben Auditorium. The second speaker, Very Reverend Rene Lauretin, will speak in July and the third lecturer will appear in October.

"Mary, Virgin and Mother of God: An Anglican Approach" will be the topic of Father Allchin's lecture. Father Allchin is an Anglican priest and librarian at Pusey House, the Anglican chaplaincy at Oxford and center for the University's Faculty of Theology Library. He is in the United States lecturing at the General Theological Seminary in New York, where he specializes in questions of Orthodox spirituality. Father is also the author or editor of many works in the line of ecumenism.

The April art exhibit in the Marian Library features seventeenth century English Roman Catholic and Anglican imprints. The Library is now in its silver-jubilee year.
