DAYTON, Ohio, October 2, 1968 --- Bro. Barrish, S.M. professor of Fine Arts at the University of Dayton, and Mr. Fred Farr, formerly of the Dayton Art Institute, will share the art spotlight at the University of Dayton in October. Both men will exhibit their works in the University's Kennedy Union from Thursday, October 10 through November 5.

Mr. Farr, who is now residing in New York City, will present his show in the Union's Art Gallery. It will consist of paintings and sculptures. Some of his work will come from galleries in New York while others will be on loan from Dayton residents who have purchased them. His sculptures are done in bronze. About 26 pieces will be in the exhibit.

Bro. Barrish, who joined the UD faculty this fall, is a native of Cleveland, Ohio, and has degrees from UD and Ohio State University. His art studies have taken him to the Dayton Art Institute, Cleveland Institute of Art, New York City School of Visual Arts and Immaculate Heart College of Los Angeles. He also has worked in graphics at Pratt Graphic Art Center in New York City and the Print Workshop in London, England.

Bro. Barrish's display consists of prints done during the past six years. They include silkscreen, etchings, plastercuts, and woodcuts. Some of his works have been exhibited at the Center of Contemporary Christian Art and IBM Gallery, both in New York City, and the Flair Gallery in Cincinnati. He also is a member of the Print Club of Philadelphia.
