DAYTON, Ohio, October 16, 1968 --- Rev. Gabriel Rus, S.M., Director of the Study Abroad program, has received confirmation from Loyola University, Chicago that the University of Dayton will formally participate in the foreign study program of Loyola's Rome Center of Liberal Arts. This will give six students from the Dayton campus an opportunity of a year's study abroad with full credit toward graduation on their return. Arrangements may also be made for a single semester instead of a year if desired.

The program is designed primarily for the junior year and a cumulative average of 3.0 or greater is required. The Director of the Rome Center is a full-time Loyola faculty member with academic rank. The courses taught are selected from those listed in the Loyola catalogue and carry the same credit value and follow the same syllabi.

Complete information may be obtained from Father Rus, Department of Languages, Room 418, Miriam Hall. Dr. James Ferrigno, Chairman of the Department of Languages has pointed out that this cooperative arrangement with Loyola is an exploratory project in preparation for U.D.'s own program of study abroad.
