DAYTON, Ohio, October 10, 1969 --- The University of Dayton has been awarded an RCA Fellowship in Computer/Information Science by the RCA Educational Aid Committee.

The RCA Fellowship, available to graduate students only, includes payment of full tuition, a stipend to the Fellow, and an unrestricted grant of $1,000 to the department in which the Fellow is majoring. The annual stipend is $2,100 for a single person, or $3,000 for a graduate with dependent wife and children. An additional $500 stipend will be provided to the Fellow if he continues his study during the summer under suitable faculty supervision.

Candidates for the fellowship should be fulltime pre-doctoral graduate students in Computer/Information Science, or closely related science, and must be American Citizens. The fellowship is open to either men or women. Selection of the RCA Fellow for a given year is to be made by an appropriate academic officer or committee of the University. Final approval rests with the RCA Educational Aid Committee.

A grant will be given for the present school term.
