DAYTON, Ohio, August 7, 1972 --- The politics of education will be a part of the University of Dayton's Political Science Department this fall when Professor Richard F. Halverson joins that department's faculty. Mr. Halverson will deal with graduate courses in organizational theory, fiscal administration, planning, and metropolitan administration. The school year starts August 28.

"We are bringing Mr. Halverson to our staff," says Dr. Antonio Lapitan, Chairman of the Political Science Department, "to add a very important dimension to our educational process. Professor Halverson has excellent training in Public Administration and Urban Affairs and has been dealing in the issues which involve education throughout the country.

"We call this 'the politics of education' and involves the issues, strategies, techniques, methods and policies which form the daily routine of educational people at all levels," he said.

Professor Halverson has a bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin, his master's from Columbia University and is completing his requirements for a doctoral degree from Columbia. Mr. Halverson has been teaching at Bloomfield College in Bloomfield, New Jersey, and also taught at Columbia.
