DAYTON, Ohio, November 29, 1971 ---- Dr. David Fand, Wayne State University economist, will give one lecture, a seminar and hold two informal talks with University of Dayton students and faculty members this Friday morning and afternoon, December 3. He is appearing on the campus under the joint sponsorship of the American Economics Association's NSF Visiting Scientist Program and UD's Department of Economics.

Dr. Frand, whose special interest in his field is monetary economics, will conduct an informal discussion session from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. in Room 207 of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Building and then lecture to students in Room 207 of Miriam Hall from 11 a. m. to 12 Noon.

His afternoon informal discussion will be held from 1:30 p. m. to 3:00 p. m. in Kennedy 315. The one hour seminar, 3:30-4:30 p. m., will be conducted in Miriam Hall, Room 106.

Holding a doctoral degree in economics from the University of Chicago (1954), Dr. Fand taught at Southern Methodist University (1959-62) and State University of New York at Buffalo (1962-67) before accepting his present position at Wayne.

Dr. Fand has had recent published articles in American and Latin American trade journals and periodicals. He also is in demand as an economics lecturer throughout the United States.
