UD ESTABLISHES TWO NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

DAYTON, Ohio, March 8, 1983 -- University of Dayton President Brother Raymond L. Fitz, S.M., has announced the establishment of endowed scholarship funds in the names of Joseph Militello and John Westerheide.

Militello, who died of a heart attack last May, was associate director for research operations of the UD Research Institute. He managed work on almost 300 research projects annually.

Westerheide, who will retire this summer as director of the UD Research Institute, has been the only director since the Institute's organization in 1956. He has been a UD employee for 31 years in all, following his graduation from the UD School of Engineering in 1947.

The scholarship endowments have been established by a University of Dayton alumnus and will fund annual scholarship awards to undergraduate students in the School of Engineering. Both will be awarded beginning this fall.

According to President Fitz, "The gifts which provide the endowment recognize the appreciation of achievements of these men and of the UD Research Institute by people outside our own organization who are very respectful of it. The relationship between the research and teaching functions of our University is underscored by the nature of the endowment."

The University of Dayton currently has over 150 fully or partially endowed academic scholarships. Full endowment requires investment of $50,000 in the scholarship.
